Crop observations set by astronauts

By HOWARD BENEDICT
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab's astronauts today plan man's first orbital observations of crops, weather, mineral deposits and volcanoes in a strip of earth ranging from Oregon to Brazil.

What they and subsequent Skylab crews learn of earth's resources could have a vital bearing on how the world manages them in the decades ahead.

Charles Conrad Jr. and Paul J. Weitz planned to turn on a package of photosensors in the afternoon after a morning of continuing medical and solar observational experiments.

They are in the sixth of a scheduled 28 days in space.

Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin was scheduled for several hours at the controls of a battery of eight telescopes, whose views of the sun Tuesday were described by scientists as "completely satisfactory."

Experts reported television images relayed to earth showed "details previously unresolved" by earth or unmanned satellite observations. They hope the months of study will disclose secrets of the sun's thermonuclear energy and how it controls our solar system.

Ground controllers, meanwhile, said they had miscalculated earlier when they said that a makeshift sun shield erected by the astronauts would cause temperatures in Skylab to drop into the low 70s and level off. They had averaged an unlivable 125 degrees as a result of the loss of a heat shield during a launch mishap May 14.

"It now appears that less than 10 per cent of the shield is doing its job, so we feel the temperatures will now stable out near 80 rather than 70," mission control told the astronauts Tuesday evening.

"I know just where that 10 per cent is," commander Conrad replied. "You can tell by the increased heat as you rub your hands along the wall."

The 22-foot by 24-foot sunshade wrinkled slightly and did not unfurl fully.

Conrad said the astronauts could operate effectively in the 80-degree temperature. But flight surgeons said they might have to slightly curtail exercising for medical purposes on a bicycle device because of the strenuous work involved.

Because of the heat, controllers are considering erecting one of the two backup sunshades that the astronauts carried along.

Quits peacekeeping force

Renewed war inevitable: Canada

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — Canada has pulled out of the four-nation Vietnam peacekeeping force because it is convinced North and South Vietnam cannot be stayed from a return to full-scale warfare.

The Canadian assessment is that the weakness of the cease-fire agreement, the uncooperativeness of the Hungarian and Polish members of the cease-fire commission and the attitudes of both Vietnamese sides must lead inevitably to renewed war.

Senior Canadians in Saigon say it has become more and more apparent that the Vietnamese sides are drifting toward a "fatal acceptance" of a military rather than a political solution to their differences.

These Canadians even offered a war timetable recently. The Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are now in a position to mount limited offensive operations, they said. By the end of the monsoons in October, the communist side probably will be able to mount an offensive on the same scale as the massive offensive in the spring of 1972, the Canadians estimated.

It was just this sort of eventuality that the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision was sent to Vietnam in February to prevent. Canada's throwing in the towel seriously weakens the peacekeeping force's potential, most observers here feel.

U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger reportedly has laid the groundwork for a tighter peace agreement in his recent talks in Paris with Le Duc Tho of the Hanoi Politburo. But reports of progress in these talks were not enough to convince the Canadian government that it would be useful to keep its people in Vietnam.

"This will have to be the last time Canada enters into this sort of thing without having a say in the writing of the peace agreement," one Canadian officer in the field commented.

A senior Canadian in Vietnam charged recently that the U.S. government had "betrayed" Canada by leading it to believe that "secret accords" with Moscow and Peking guaranteed that the vague provisions of the cease-fire agreement would be kept, particularly that there would be no communist military building.

Other major problems developed. The Viet Cong withdrew its field representative because of demonstrations against them that the government staged in Hue, Da Nang and other areas. There are now no VC personnel with the commission outside Saigon.

The Viet Cong also filed few cease-fire complaints, with the result that 95 percent of the commission's investigations were of charges by the Saigon government. Yet the commission's field teams reported obvious violations of the cease-fire by the Saigon forces that were not being reported.

One Canadian officer lamented in Qui Nhon: "We knew only a tiny percentage of what is going on here."

Nixon hopes to put down fears of 'bully' role

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew to Iceland today for talks with French President Georges Pompidou, hoping to dispel any fear of Uncle Sam's playing a bully-boy role in Western Europe.

While Pompidou will be pressing for quick action on monetary problems, Nixon will emphasize a quest for a new "Atlantic charter"—a set of broad principles and goals for the Atlantic community as it moves toward detailed negotiations in areas of economy, defense and foreign policy.

The two presidents, after arriving in the Icelandic capital of Reykjavik, plan separate meetings with leaders of the host country. Their own two days of talks are to begin Thursday.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's foreign-policy assistant, acknowledged to newsmen Tuesday that there is concern in France and other European capitals that the United States might try to blackmail its Atlantic partners by using its participation in the defense of Western Europe as a club to gain economic concessions.

Disavowing any U.S. intent to play the bully, Kissinger told a news conference:

"The United States does not maintain now that there should be one grand negotiation in which all subjects are discussed simultaneously. Obviously, it is more practical for individual subjects to be treated separately, but what the United States does maintain is that these subjects are organically interrelated, not because of an act of policy by the U.S. and not as an act of choice, but as a necessity."

He said flatly it is "not correct" that the United States by emphasizing the relationship of various fields to each other is trying to blackmail its European allies in the economic field.

The Iceland summit is the last in a series of consultations aimed at paving the way for a presidential visit to Europe, probably sometime after mid-October. Nixon has met in Washington in recent months with the leaders of Britain, West Germany and Italy.

Nixon is scheduled to return to Washington late Friday afternoon.

Test vote overwhelming

Senate shows muscle on ending war funds

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — An overwhelming margin on a test vote indicates the Senate is ready to pass a sweeping amendment to bar all funds for continued U.S. bombing of Cambodia.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said the President's backers wouldn't filibuster against the measure. But a GOP source said he doubted final action would come today, though both Republican Leader Hugh Scott and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield have expressed hopes that would be possible.

Republican supporters of President Nixon, defeated 55 to 21 on Tuesday's test vote, sought to draft amendments to weaken Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's antibombing amendment, which was attached to a $3.2-billion supplemental money bill.

The test came on a procedural matter and was approved despite arguments the Eagleton amendment could jeopardize renewed U.S.-North Vietnamese peace efforts. The action was the strongest sign yet that Congress, and especially the Senate, wants a halt to U.S. military activity in Southeast Asia.

For the first time a majority of Republicans, including some conservatives who had been loyal to Nixon, joined with an overwhelming number of Democrats to vote against administration policy.

Though the issue was whether the Eagleton amendment was germane, because it affected funds in earlier money bills as well as this one, both sides conceded the tally was an accurate reflection of current Senate sentiment on the Cambodia bombing.

Specifically, the amendment would prohibit use of any congressionally appropriated funds, not just money in the supplemental bill, for U.S. military action in or over Cambodia or Laos.

Still to be answered is what will happen in the House, which voted 219 to 188 for a more limited amendment barring use of funds in the bill for bombing of Cambodia.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant Republican leader, said adoption of the Eagleton amendment, approved unanimously by the Appropriations Committee two weeks ago, would be "a futile exercise that can damage the negotiations in Paris and do great damage to the rules of the Senate as well."

However, Mansfield declared that "the question today is not the rules of the Senate. It is the question of what the Senate wants to do about an undeclared war against a hapless country."

Mexico, Italy, France named as possibles

SAIGON (AP) — Mexico, France, Italy and the Scandinavian countries were among those mentioned today to replace Canada on the Vietnam cease-fire commission. But the chief of the outgoing Canadian delegation recommended an Asian country.

Canada's intention to withdraw from the commission by July 31 was announced in Ottawa Tuesday, shortly before Henry A. Kissinger said in Washington that he and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho hoped to reach "new understandings" to reinforce the cease-fire.

Michel Gauvin, chief of the Canadian delegation to the International Commission of Control and Supervision, said the peacekeeping force has been "observing a war, not a cease-fire," since the truce went into effect four months ago.

He recommended that another Asian country join Indonesia on the four-nation commission to strike a balance with the two East European members, Poland and Hungary.

An Indonesian spokesman suggested that Malaysia replace Canada because "Vietnam is first and foremost a Southeast Asian problem."

The new member is subject to approval by the four signers of the Paris cease-fire agreement: the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Gauvin blamed the commission's lack of effectiveness on "the failure of certain parties to live up to the agreement." He cited infiltration of communist troops and war material into South Vietnam and lack of respect for the neutrality of Cambodia and Laos as the primary stumbling blocks to a successful cease-fire. He also blamed the members' division along ideological lines.

Kissinger told a White House news conference on Tuesday that he and Tho carefully reviewed the cease-fire accords during their recent talks in Paris and "we expect that next week, when discussions resume, we will conclude them satisfactorily."

Kissinger said he regretted Canada's withdrawal from the commission, "especially at this time, when we hope that out of the negotiations now going on in Paris an agreement that will be better implemented and that can be better implemented, because of various adjustments that will be made, will emerge."

Black triumphs over Yorty in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thomas Bradley, a black whose Texas sharecropper parents came to Los Angeles 46 years ago seeking "a better life," has unseated Mayor Sam Yorty.

The soft-spoken Bradley, 55, will take office in July for a four-year term and, in the process, will become the first Negro mayor of the nation's third largest city.

Los Angeles will become the largest U.S. city ever to have a Negro as chief executive. About 16 per cent of Los Angeles' three million residents are black.

Bradley termed his victory in Tuesday's election "the fulfillment of a dream." He said he was told while growing up that, as a Negro, "you can't do this, you can't go there, you cannot achieve this position."

But he overwhelmed Yorty with more than 56 per cent of the vote, reversing the outcome of their bitter fight four years ago. Although the election was nonpartisan, both men are Democrats.

With all but one of the city's 3,160 precincts reporting, it was Bradley 431,222, or 56.3 per cent, and Yorty 334,297, or 43.7 per cent.

Yorty, who was seeking a fourth term, went to bed and refused to concede defeat.

Although Yorty won election as a state legislator, congressman and mayor, he lost in his bids for governor of California, U.S. senator and the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. "Let us move forward," Bradley, a 6-foot-4 former track star and police lieutenant, told a victory celebration. "Let us save Los Angeles from the kind of decay that has overcome so many cities in our country."

As in 1969, Bradley and Yorty emerged 1-2 from this year's April primary, and Bradley went into the runoff leading in the polls. He blamed his 1969 loss on alleged racial attacks by Yorty.

There were similar charges this year; and as Yorty went to bed, he declared that the change to a Bradley administration "will be a very radical one and there will be a lot of people who wish they got out to vote."

Mail intercepted, telephones tapped

Report spy plan Hoover rejected used later

By JEFFREY MILLS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret White House plan to spy on domestic radicals, rejected once at the insistence of former FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, later was put at least partially into practice, say sources close to the Watergate investigation.

Two sources, one of whom said he had seen the plan, described it as providing for an undercover team made up of representatives of various federal agencies who had access to "virtually all agencies of government."

They said the secret agents intercepted mail, tapped telephones, audited income-tax returns and planted informers. The top-secret text of the plan was locked in a safe-deposit box by ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III and later turned over to a federal judge.

There were additional Watergate developments Tuesday concerning the CIA's link to the case and on the subject of possible testimony by President Nixon on Watergate.

Gen. Robert E. Cushman, former deputy CIA director, said he was "put upon" by Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt when he agreed to give Hunt aid which was used subsequently in the burglary at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

At the White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said it would be "constitutionally inappropriate" for the President to testify before the grand jury or Senate Watergate investigators.

Asked about the domestic-intelligence plan, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren would not go beyond a lengthy statement in which Nixon last week discussed the Watergate scandal.

In that statement Nixon said he had withdrawn a plan to spy on radicals in July 1970 after Hoover objected to it.

An Intelligence Evaluation Committee was established the following December "to improve coordination among the intelligence community and to prepare evaluations and estimates of domestic intelligence," Nixon said.

The sources said they couldn't confirm whether or how long the group performed that function. But it soon became "a cover for a secret police operation," the sources said.

"They were using the national-security plan that Hoover objected to," one source said. "That was the blueprint. They had copies of it and apparently understood their actions were authorized. It was just like Watergate."

Convicted Watergate burglars James W. McCord Jr. and Bernard L. Barker have testified they believed the break-in at the Democratic headquarters had been approved by top Nixon aides and therefore was legal.

The Ellsberg break-in was the subject of Cushman's testimony before a county grand jury in Los Angeles.

Cushman, now commandant of the Marine Corps, told newsmen after the session that he doesn't blame former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman for involving the CIA in the Ellsberg break-in. "I don't know whether he knew what Mr. Hunt was doing or not."

He said he feels Hunt had violated a trust. "I certainly think I was put upon . . . by Mr. Hunt," Cushman said. "When Mr. Hunt came to call, he said the White House had sent him," Cushman said Ehrlichman did not mention Nixon when requesting aid from the CIA for Hunt.

"I knew his position. He didn't have to mention anything," Cushman said. The former deputy CIA director said he would have provided no help if the name of Ellsberg had been mentioned in his discussions with Hunt or Ehrlichman.

Charges against Ellsberg, who admitted releasing the Pentagon papers to the news media, were dropped earlier this month because of government misconduct, including the break-in.

V.A. strikes insurance blow to aid consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans Administration has struck a blow for consumers as well as for veterans by adopting Wisconsin's attitude toward publicizing insurance merits, a state observer said Tuesday.

The VA was quoted in a report handed to the Senate's Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee as saying it will give millions of veterans access to comparisons of various life insurance companies' policies.

Stanley C. DuRose Jr., Wisconsin insurance commissioner, said his state is the only one which has a program of disclosing policy costs and benefits.

He said he is urging the National Association of Insurance Commissioners to endorse the practice when the group meets this week.

A VA spokesman said a version of the Wisconsin practice is being applied in the face of criticism by consumer advocates who have accused the Defense Department of steering veterans to particular insurance companies, some of them directed by retired military officers.

"The consumer in general and the veteran in particular have had only the salesman's pitch about which was a better buy," DuRose said.

DuRose said a large proportion of the insurance industry has agreed to supply data demanded by Wisconsin.

Boy's parents are charged with neglect

PRESTON, Minn. — A hearing has been scheduled in Fillmore County Court here for the parents of a six-year-old Chatfield boy who has been accused of burglary. Judge George Murray will preside.

The Chatfield couple have been charged with neglect as the result of a petition filed with the court by Fillmore County Attorney Joseph Herrick.

Judge Murray set the hearing for June 11 at 1:30 p.m. In the meantime, the boy, one of several children in the family, is in the custody of his parents.

The burglary occurred at the Kremer and Evans Plumbing Shop, Chatfield, on May 22. Taken from a cash drawer was $176. The youth then allegedly piled papers on the floor and started them on fire.

Sheriff Carl Fann also solved the May 20 burglary of the shop when the boy reportedly told where he had hidden $25 he had taken from a desk drawer. That day the young boy had scattered ink from ink pads over the floor, authorities reported.

Officers recovered $19.90 of the money taken May 20 from a junked tire the boy had allegedly used as a hiding place. On May 22 they recovered $1.46 but did not take the several candy bars the boy had.

Injured driver still improving

Improvement was still being reported this noon in the condition of Kurt D. Spohn, 19, St. Paul, who was seriously injured in a fatal two-vehicle collision on Highway 61 north of Minnesota City Friday night. He's still in intensive care at Community Memorial Hospital, authorities said.

Spohn was driving one of the cars in which Leo V. Jilk, 64, Minnesota City, was killed.

Spohn is being treated for arm and leg fractures, facial lacerations and other injuries received in the head-on crash.

Earmarked for central garage

U.S. Treasury officials will be told that Winona will spend $208,908 toward a new central vehicle storage and maintenance garage — out of revenue sharing money.

A report is due June 20 from city finance director Darrell R. Johnson detailing how the city will spend entitlements in the first six months of 1973, and city councilmen Tuesday night listed the entire amount for the $420,000 garage.

Though the special council session was for information only, and technically no official council action could be taken, Johnson and City Manager Paul G. Schriever were given the nod to notify federal officials of the spending plan. The city also is required to publish locally what it does with checks delivered here under the five-year federal sharing program. The city so far has been paid $475,558 and expects another $104,454 and expects another $104,454 and expects another $104,454.

Amounts due in Winona in the new federal fiscal year, beginning July 1, are expected to increase depending on the city's local tax effort and its share under a formula set by the Treasury.

Formal approval of the report on spending is expected at Monday night's regular council session.

Hands-off policy on refuse favored

By DAVID C. McKAY

Winona councilmen may decide officially this month to take their official hands off garbage and refuse collection for one year.

A consensus reached in special session Tuesday night showed the council in favor of allowing Refuse Disposal Service, Inc.'s, garbage pickup contract to expire June 30 and of leaving disposal of both garbage and trash to property owners.

A stiff ordinance enforcing mandatory disposal — in each homeowner's own way — would be expected to be passed to prevent health hazards and illegal accumulations of refuse.

THE STRAW VOTE among councilmen was an apparent rejection of City Manager Paul G. Schriever's recommendation for more government involvement in both "wet" garbage and "dry" refuse collection and disposal in Winona.

The city now contracts for garbage pickup paid by taxes while property owners use the landfill area or Riverbend Industrial Park transfer station or hire private haulers for refuse disposal.

"I would have some reservations about the council adopting a policy of 'hands off,'" Schriever said while asking for directions on what his office should do now.

He was told to go ahead with a scheduled meeting at 4 p.m. today with local trash haulers, but plans to develop franchised service for combined garbage and refuse pickup will be dropped for the time being.

Councilman Earl Laufenburger (1st Ward) said, "I hesitate a little on having the city divorce itself completely from trash pickup," but added he would go along with the year-long trial suggested by At-large Councilman Barry Nelson.

THE ATTEMPT at getting out of collection was supported informally by At-large Councilman Dan Trainor Jr., Jerry Borzyskowski (4th) and Howard Hoveland (3rd). Gaylord Fox (2nd) questioned the problems in enforcing "voluntary" dis-

Mayor to ask convening of charter group

Winona Mayor Norman E. Indall will ask District Court Judge Glenn E. Kelley for permission to call the city charter commission into session to choose a new chairman.

Indall said Tuesday night he will ask if he has the power to call a session of the commission, idle since late 1971. City councilmen are considering a charter amendment to allow advance payments to city staff on out of town trips on city business.

According to At-large Councilman Dan Trainor Jr., commission member Emanuel's term expired last October, leaving the chair vacant. Indall plans to call commissioners together again to begin a new series of meetings.

The group's last formal meeting apparently was on Sept. 26, 1971, when it met to adopt a resolution supporting the city manager form of government.

Commissioners are appointed by the District Court.

posals which would be required of Winonans.

Councilmen are hoping that leaving disposal of all refuse to property owners will solve some of the problems in the $55,000 annual contract with Refuse Disposal Service for garbage collection. The La Crosse contractor has been criticized by citizens and city officials for failure to live up to the terms of its five-year contract.

"We have only a month to meet the issue," Mayor Norman E. Indall told councilmen, when the contract ends.

An administration recommendation would have put the city on an interim collection program leading to franchising of a group of local haulers to dispose of garbage and refuse under a single agreement. The city would have handled fee collections and complaints.

Schriever reported results of a preliminary opinion survey which, he said, showed a "fairly good groundswell support for doing something" to improve collection. Over half the 1,000 responses, he added, favored more government involvement.

"I KNOW," said Trainor, "the minute the city gets involved in it, it'll get screwed up." He said of haulers under city franchises: "They're gonna get obstinate as hell because they're gonna get their money no matter what."

Under Schriever's plan, the city would have handled payments to the contract haulers. Taxes or service charges on quarterly water bills would have provided the payments.

As part of his suggestion for progress, a good individualized program requires good materials geared to the needs of the children and in PLAN we have materials developed by professional teachers and proven in use. I don't know if the average classroom teacher has the time or the expertise to develop such materials."

Mueller said he liked PLAN because it afforded each child the opportunity to complete his tasks in varying periods of time, adding that he had witnessed situations where individualized programs of instruction were initiated "and the teachers completely became bogged down in paper work."

COMMENTING on his first-year experience with PLAN at Lincoln, Hogenson said it was difficult at this point to make a definitive and comprehensive evaluation on the basis of test results but that he felt that PLAN appeared to be most effective for children in the lower quartile of their classes.

Charts are maintained continuously on growth patterns of each child, Hogenson said, adding that "while the patterns may not be too spectacular, what I like is that it appears that all children are growing." Hogenson said that he had been impressed during the past year with the fact that "I've never seen more teachers so enthusiastic and so concerned with the individual needs of the child. There's been a high level of professionalism, fewer discipline problems and more parent concern and involvement."

Adank said that surveys conducted among parents of Goodview children convinced him that "PLAN at Goodview has excellent parental support. I've never seen parents become as involved as they have at Goodview and the children are excited about the program."

Adank said he felt that test results indicated a significant growth pattern among children enrolled in PLAN at Goodview and cited survey findings which indicated that in almost every category parents were in favor of PLAN.

HE SAID this support was even more evident in a survey taken this past year than one made during the first year of operation.

After hearing remarks by Mueller, Adank and Hogenson, Sadowski recalled that at a meeting earlier this month he had been reluctant to approve extension of PLAN to Central because "I felt we're going into the third year and this was the time to make a thorough study before going any further. I was hoping then for an evaluation of PLAN to determine whether it was worth the dollars we're spending for it and when I asked for some positive proof you said you couldn't give it to me."

Sadowski said he felt at that time that "if you can't prove to me the worth of PLAN, how can I prove it to myself or to the parents who talk to me about it?"

SADOWSKI said however, that Tuesday's presentation was "the most thorough examination and evaluation I've had of PLAN and I think now maybe the extra dollars are worth it. If PLAN is as effective as you say it is, then I think we should initiate in all district elementary schools. After all, the whole district is paying for it and I think it's discriminatory to offer it only in certain schools."

Mueller said that he felt that an extension of PLAN should have prior parental interest and support, pointing out that parent interest prompted its introduction at Lincoln and was responsible for his recommendation that it be utilized at Central.

"I'd like, first, to see a feasibility study made concerning the use of PLAN at outlying schools where we have enrollment problems," Mueller said. "If we can generate parental interest PLAN may provide the means for saving the neighborhood school that everyone in the district seems to be interested in."

Sadowski said he felt efforts should be made to make more parents and teachers acquainted with PLAN and if support develops that the program be "instituted in all district schools by 1975."

SUPERINTENDENT OF Schools A. L. Nelson said that he agreed that parent support and interest would be essential for successful operation of PLAN in any school.

Fountain City girl struck by car improving

FOUNTAIN CITY, Wis. — A two-year old Fountain City girl has improved to satisfactory condition at Community Memorial Hospital, Winona, where she was admitted Sunday after being struck by a car.

Kimberly Brandes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brandes, Fountain City, has a skull fracture, according to a hospital spokesman.

The accident occurred Sunday about 12:20 p.m. on Highway 35 here in the city.

James Zeller, Fountain City chief of police, reported that the little girl darted into the street and was struck by a westbound vehicle driven by Carol J. Konkel, 18, Fountain City Rt. 2.

Kimberly was struck by the right front fender of the 1967 two door sedan. She was taken to the Winona hospital by her parents.

It was raining at the time, said Zeller.

Board OK's incorporation of PLAN at Central School

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Daily News Staff Writer

The first step toward possible utilization of a computer-managed program of individualized instruction in all elementary schools of Winona Independent District 861 within this decade was taken Tuesday by the district school board.

Acting on the recommendation of E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent of schools for elementary education, board members in special session voted to incorporate the Westinghouse Corporation's Plan for Learning in Accordance with Needs (PLAN) in the instructional program at Central Elementary School for the 1973-74 school year.

CENTRAL THEN will become the third school in the district to implement PLAN.

The program was introduced in the district with the opening of the new Goodview Elementary School in the fall of 1971 and was extended to Lincoln Elementary School last fall.

The recommendation that PLAN be used at Central was promoted by substantial parent interest in the Central district earlier this year to provide their children with PLAN instruction.

Action on the proposal had been delayed earlier this month when two board members had expressed reservations about extending the program to another school.

DANIEL SADOWSKI, 4th District director, said that he was reluctant to institute PLAN at another school until a thorough evaluation of its results had been made and data compiled as to whether the results justified the expenditure of funds required.

Mrs. Michael Hull, 2nd District, who did not attend Tuesday's special board meeting, had said that she thought several other alternative programs should be investigated before expanding on PLAN.

The board Tuesday made its decision to establish PLAN at Central after receiving extended briefings by Mueller; Richard Adank, principal at Goodview School, and Robert Hogenson, principal at Lincoln and Central Elementary, on their experiences with the program.

A breakdown of costs provided by Mueller showed that the computer charge for Goodview and Lincoln schools for 1973-74 was estimated at $12,250 and that no additional expenditures would be required for the computer if the program were to be extended to Central.

OTHER COSTS — including wages for a teacher aide, per pupil charges, in-service training and others, would involve an expenditure of $18,160 at Goodview and $11,680 at Lincoln, Mueller estimated.

He said he believed the additional cost to the district if PLAN were to be extended to Central would come to about $15,000.

This would bring the total cost of PLAN in three schools to $57,990, which would be reduced by funds allocated to Goodview under Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary School Act and which Mueller estimated will be a minimum of $20,760 for 1973-74.

Mueller said that he felt that a side benefit that might be realized by utilizing PLAN at Central — together with certain student reassignments — would be that the sixth grade, which is now assigned to Lincoln because of space limitations, might be retained at Central.

MUELLER SAID that he saw PLAN as a valuable device for maintaining neighborhood schools which might be threatened by enrollment changes.

Another important consideration, Mueller noted, was the trend toward individualized instruction in the elementary schools.

"If we are to have individualized instruction," Mueller commented, "I want strong accountability and the computer can keep track of the student's progress. A good individualized program requires good materials geared to the needs of the children and in PLAN we have materials developed by professional teachers and proven in use. I don't know if the average classroom teacher has the time or the expertise to develop such materials."

Mueller said he liked PLAN because it afforded each child the opportunity to complete his tasks in varying periods of time, adding that he had witnessed situations where individualized programs of instruction were initiated "and the teachers completely became bogged down in paper work."

Pearl brightens New York

NEW YORK — I bounced back into New York city after a week in France... back to the town that's supposed to be the swampland of crime... where the miasma and effluvia of modern civilization are supposed to be choking me to death... and maybe I'm just stupid, but I like it back here.

Sunny France was rainier than New York. One nice day in seven.

Walking down Broadway, I went immediately to McGinnis's for a big hamburger on a roll with a thick slice of onion, and I confess I was not displeased when the bartender wouldn't let me pay for a drink. I was evidently in luck. I strolled into the Cordial bar a few blocks away and Sam Leibowitz, the proprietor, confided to me that the night before he'd had seven Canadian customers who bought five rounds of drinks.

"I bought them a drink the next round," Sam said. "They were so surprised they fell off the bar stool. They said it had never happened to them ever before in Canada."

But the thing that made me the happiest about being back in NY is that Miss Pearl Bailey opened at the Waldorf Empire Room with such a torrent of talent that she may have won a round for Women's Lib. The world's greatest entertainer today could well be Miss Bailey who is definitely female.

It was appropriate that her husband sated the spectacle:

"Presenting in an original composition the world's foremost dummer, Lou Bellson."

After his stupendous solo came Pearl Mae doing just about everything from bumping and grinding to dancing down the stage steps... and back up the stage steps... stories about being hospitalized... "I didn't know you paid for oxygen... I was paying about $2.85 a day just on breath... I saw these handsome young doctor with beards and long hair... I thought maybe I'd died and they was the Apostles..."

Earl Wilson

Pearlie Mae was just a trifle suggestive here and there and got one standing ovation before she did. "Hello, Dolly" and one after. Miss Bailey was right up to the times when she mentioned "the House"... I go there so often I call it the House... "I was to the House," she said, "and the President appointed me Ambassador of Love. I didn't want any money for it... and thank the Lord I didn't take any!" Pearl should send that laugh along to President Nixon. He could probably use one.

The Friars Club honored comedian Morty Gunty at a roast the other night — except that Gunty wasn't in sight and there were few gags razzing him. Later it was explained that he'd been rushed to Brooklyn Jewish Hospital with bleeding ulcers.

Dick Cavett, passing the envelopes to the presenters at the Emmy awards, said, "I'm like John Dean — I only convey messages." Ex-astronaut Scott Carpenter, who was a judge at the Miss U.S.A. contest, wanted to send a rose to each of the 51 girls — but when he learned the roses were $36 a dozen he sent notes instead.

Major need for space explorers: someone to listen

By RODNEY ANGOVE DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Space explorers should be able to live without sex for extended periods, a researcher says after a 15-week, all-male experiment.

What space explorers really need, said Dr. Don A. Rockwell, is someone outside their capsule "they could blow their top to" from time to time.

Rockwell, assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of California at Davis, was codirector of a "social interaction study" that ended Tuesday. In it, six male students lived in groups of three in 11-by-17-foot rooms with bedrooms and closets. The project was supported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The students, who emerged at intervals pale and blinking in the bright sunlight, agreed with Rockwell.

John Silman, 21, of Santa Rosa said the sex drive "was not as strong as one might believe. We knew the score before we went in."

The purpose of the experiment, Rockwell said, was to find out how space explorers cope with day-night rhythms in an unusual environment.

While each participant's hostilities were measured during the period, the observations on their sexless existence were only a byproduct.

Admitting the sex drive could become stronger during a Mars probe of 500 to 600 days, Rockwell said, "I imagine they could handle that for a long, long period of time."

Rockwell functioned as an unseen father confessor for the six students. The men had a private telephone to call Rockwell at any time and spill their grievances.

"Rather than get angry at each other, they would ventilate their ire out here," said Rockwell. "They would tell me their problems, rather than the others. It was their safety valve. They needed someone they could blow their tops to."

Hospital seeks funds for its collapsed wing

CALEDONIA, Minn. (Special) — The Caledonia Community Hospital board of directors was told last week that federal and state loans are being sought for the rebuilding of a wing of the hospital that collapsed April 17.

The northeast wing of the building collapsed in the wake of torrential rains. Exact cause of the collapse has never been determined.

The board interviewed several architects interested in reconstruction of the wing, but none has yet been retained. The board did hire Minneapolis attorney Clint Grosse in connection with the matter.

In another matter, the board received several applications for the hospital administrator post to replace Claude Kremer, who has resigned.

Daley wants to build expressway

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Daley also was asked if he had any curiosity about the musical play, "Boss," adapted from the best-selling book about Daley by columnist Mike Royko. The musical opened last week in a suburb.

"I never heard of it," the mayor said as he left the podium and returned to his office.

Daley, one of the strongest supporters of the proposed expressway, said the road was not discussed in his luncheon meeting with Walker who has said the expressway will not be built while he is governor.

Reporters asked Daley if the road could be built if Walker remains opposed. "No one's omnipotent," Daley replied.

"What about the needs of the people who live in Chicago?" the mayor asked. "What about the people in the suburbs? We are told by the engineers it will take 35 per cent of the traffic of the Kennedy and Eisenhower expressways. How in the name of God can anybody be constantly opposed to it?"

Part of the opposition to the project has been the dislocation of families in its path. But Daley said only 69 homes would be affected in the first section of the highway—between Midway Airport and the Stevenson Expressway—and that the residents would be provided with better places to live.

The $1-billion project needs gubernatorial approval to qualify for 90 per cent federal aid. Walker could not be reached for comment on Daley's remarks.

Former war prisoner may challenge McGovern for seat

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — A former prisoner of war, Lt. Col. Leo Thorsness, Sioux Falls, says that if his health is good he will attempt to unseat Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

The Air Force pilot who spent six years in a North Vietnamese prison camp said Tuesday he would make a final decision by January, 1974, on whether to run against McGovern, a man who he believes acted disgracefully by making certain antiwar statements during the 1972 presidential campaign.

The 41-year-old Air Force officer wrote in the magazine "First Monday" that he found McGovern's promise to go to Hanoi and beg for the release of American POWs "disgraceful because I strongly believe that an American president should never have to beg for anything."

Following publication of that article, Thorsness was contacted by Air Force officials who told him to stop making politically charged statements while still on active duty.

Still, Thorsness said Tuesday he would enter the race if he was in good health by January. Thorsness has undergone one operation and is scheduled for two more to correct injuries received when he bailed out of his fighter jet in 1967.

Thorsness said he believes God created everyone with a purpose, and that his was to seek high political office.

"My decision was the result of pure, solid rational thinking. The Lord didn't appear and tell me this is what I should do," he said. Thorsness said he made the decision after four years in a Hanoi prison camp.

To capture the seat McGovern has held since 1962, Thorsness faces an uphill fight.

Still officially on active duty with the Air Force, Thorsness has been asked by his superiors to refrain from "any public statements or written articles which have any partisan political connotation."

He must contend with another Republican with no such handicap — Sioux Falls businessman Al Schock — who has been on a 270-mile walk across the state to promote his candidacy against McGovern.

And he faces the formidable opposition of McGovern himself. McGovern failed to carry

South Dakota in his 1972 presidential bid, but has since been spending every available moment campaigning in the state.

Thorsness calls himself a "salesman of Americanism" and says Americans must be made aware of how lucky they are to live in a country where they are free to do and say what they please.

"I feel certain that the antiwar stand some people took did prolong the war, but I always add that one of the reasons that we were there was to protect their right to say what they wanted," he said.

Thorsness said that while he has been out of touch with the problems of South Dakota and the nation for several years, he is certain he can catch up on what he missed.

"I can know more about South Dakota and its problems than 95 per cent of South Dakotans. I'll work on it 24 hours a day if I have to," he said.

Thorsness was born in Walnut Grove, Minn., and attended high school in Storden, Minn. He said he is sensitive to the problems of the farmer because of his small town background. He was stationed at Nellis Air Force, Nev., before being assigned to a squadron operating out of Thailand, but said his official residence has been Sioux Falls for 19 years.

The Air Force officer speaks frequently in opposition to communism.

"No people should have to live under that form of government unless they so choose it," he said.

He said his feelings result, in part, from harsh North Vietnamese indoctrination attempts.

"Their efforts to sell communism to us backfired. We became stronger Americans because of it. We saw the weaknesses of their system," he said.

But Thorsness added that he approves of conciliatory gestures toward communist bloc countries.

Under the watchful eye of the Air Force and already months behind McGovern and Schock, Thorsness said his campaign will be "completely an uphill battle."

But he said he would not consider defeat in 1974 the end of his political career.

"My goal will remain the same," he said.

Environmentalists ask rate impact statement

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Electric Power Co. objected Tuesday to an unprecedented attempt to attach a post-increase environmental impact statement to a rate increase granted by the state Public Service Commission.

John Siefert of Franksville told a commission hearing that lower rates for users of large amounts of power, and uncontrolled expansion of facilities invites a waste of power.

Studies have shown that use of electric power decreases as rates increase, Siefert said in support of the impact statement proposal.

Environmentalists, he said, had "plenty of time" to present solid evidence prior to the rate increase.

They have spoken only in generalities, he added.

"They knew what the commission's position was, and if they wanted to present evidence, they had plenty of time to do so," Gorske said.

Peter Anderson of Wisconsin Environmental Decade said a motion by environmentalists to adjourn the rate increase hearing for seven days to allow time to assemble witnesses was denied by the PSC.

Arthur Padrutt, a commission member, said he thought the state's environmental protection act was vague in its requirements for impact statements.

Even if a detrimental environmental situation were found to exist, the law does not dictate that an application be denied, Padrutt said.

Commissioner Richard Cudahy questioned how the PSC would be able to arrive at a fair decision on impact statements.

Commission Chairman William Eich said if the PSC were to rule in favor of a statement, a revamping of staff would be necessary.

"I doubt most of our staff are experts on earthworms," Eich said.

He said the PSC would rule on the petition in 30 days.

The rate increase is to produce $12.7 million a year.

Whitehall students win awards in music, band

WHITEHALL, Wis. (Special) — Whitehall High School students active in band, chorus and piano received awards at the annual music banquet held at the Green Meadow Supper Club near Blair.

Seven students received scholarships to attend music workshops this summer. Band students Kay Hauge, Don Reck and Gretchen Hegge received scholarships from the Music Mothers to attend the Dorian Music Festival at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, June 17-23. Jayne Thompson was chosen alternate. Music Mothers also presented Dorian Scholarships to choral students Wendy Humphrey and Mike Stuve, while the Music Study Club presented Jeff Arneson with a Dorian scholarship. Alternates are Leona Gjestvang, Susan Stendahl, Mary Olsen and Kay Clipper. For the first time the Music Mothers presented a scholarship to the Hendel Pine Workshop at Shell Lake, Wis. Naomi Gunderson received this award.

They were Beth Anderson, Barb Berg, Debra Halama, Carol Hanson, Deanna Matchey, Tom Monson, Kim Otterson, Howard Steinke and Ellen Wnuk.

Other awards presented by Johnson were gold pins, silver pins and charms for student participation in district and state contests, regular attendance in music activities and grades.

RECEIVING GOLD pins were sophomores, Kathleen Fischer and Naomi Gunderson; juniors

Gretchen Hegge and Kay Hauge; and seniors Beth Anderson, Deanna Matchey, Tom Monson and Karen Suchla. Seniors Don Reck and Betsy Fremstad received a silver pin and Miss Fremstad also received a charm.

Miss Nancy Schenck, piano instructor, presented awards to her students which they had won at district and state contests. Receiving these awards were Naomi Gunderson, Holly Schaefer, Kathleen Fischer, Sherri Halverson, David Rutland, Julie Vold and Melinda Hanson.

SHERIDAN Johnson, band director, presented his students with awards they had won earlier at district and state contests. They were seventh grade, Clark Goodpastor, freshmen, Mike Dismore, Steve Johnson, Jamie Peterson, Marie Rasmussen, David Rutland and Bonnie Suchla; sophomores Carol Anderson, Sherilyn Anderson, Marlene Baulch, Kirsten Berg, Larry Dokkestul, Kay Evenson, Kathleen Fischer, Sue Fremstad, Naomi Gunderson, Melinda Hanson, Nancy Hanson, Beth Hoyer, Shirley Isaneson, Russ Johnson, Vicki Ekeberg, Linda Larson, Nancy Matchey, Michelle Petersen, Kristi Preuss and Roy Semb; Juniors: Sherry Baulch, Julie Briggs, Gretchen Hegge, Andre Grantlund, Kay Hauge, Wendy Humphrey, Sandra Isaneson, Kathy Klimek, Leland Moe, Don Reck and Hayne Thompson; and seniors Beth Anderson, Barb Berg, Betsy Fremstad, Debra Halama, Deanna Matchey, Tom Monson, Kim Otterson and Karen Suchla.

Johnson also presented letters to seniors who had been band members for four years.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Emergency medical services performed in the field by a civilian version of battlefield paramedics is the goal of legislation introduced Tuesday in the Wisconsin Senate.

The proposal authorizes the training and licensing of medical assistants, able to administer emergency treatment at the scene of an accident or illness.

The bill provides paramedic teams with transmitters, enabling contact by paramedics with physicians. Sen. James Devitt, R-Greenfield, an author of the measure, said.

With training and radio communications, the first-aid teams would "attempt a stabilization of the patient's condition at the scene and enroute to the hospital," Devitt said.

Devitt, chairman of the Senate Committee on Health, Education and Welfare, said Wisconsin would become the fifth state to authorize paramedic assistance in emergency service.

The proposal also is authored by Rep. Joseph Czerwinski, D-Milwaukee, who chairs the Assembly Health and Social Services Committee.

The bill would create a 12-member examining board which would examine and license paramedic candidates.

The measure defines a paramedic as "a person trained and licensed in emergency cardiac, illness, and accident procedures."

Paramedics would work out of fire department and law enforcement offices, rescue units and hospitals, Devitt said.

Evil and the law

In 1972 the Congress passed an election reform law, with controls on disclosure and spending. Now they're saying we need more laws to control campaigns. . . . Maybe there are limits to the ability of laws to control evil men.

George Bush, chairman of the National Committee, regrets that Watergate is causing people to believe that all politics is corrupt. In his experience in the House of Representatives he found that the overwhelming majority of members on both sides were honorable men. . . . But how do you tell who isn't a member of that overwhelming majority? — A.B.

Federal aid for mental centers put in jeopardy

The recent hassle in the Winona County Board of Commissioners about continued funding of an alcoholism program was an indication about a larger argument that will occur this next year.

The argument will be about financing of community mental health centers, such as those operating in Southeastern Minnesota and Western Wisconsin.

This pie graph shows how they're financed on a national average basis:

THE NIXON administration has proposed a sharp reduction in the federal funding for these centers. Its proposal emphasizes withdrawing funds for new centers — 500 of 1,500 proposed centers are in operation — but it is clear that the administration's intention is to phase out direct federal grants to existing centers over a period of years.

No one is arguing against the centers; both the administration and Congress agree the program has improved treatment of the nation's mentally ill. What they've done — among other things — is reduce the resident population in the mental hospitals to half of the 1955 level.

But the administration contends the program is so good that local and state governments should and will pick up the full tab, including funding for entirely new centers.

TWO ARGUMENTS heard in the Winona controversy over alcoholism counseling reflected national viewpoints and disputes about the centers:

• A county commissioner said that the federal government starts a program like this, then drops support with the argument that it was only a demonstration.

Rep. Paul Rogers, Florida Democrat, chairman of the House health subcommittee, has argued that it doesn't make sense to do away with a program because it has done so well. "If it's good, do away with it. If it's bad, do away with it. In other words, wipe out all activity, and I think that may be what they want to do."

• A commissioner also said that alcoholics who are counseled should pay for the service. That's part of the administration's pitch: to increase local funding including an increased reliance on user charges. It also suggests use of federal revenue sharing funds.

Well, the Senate has already passed a bill to keep the program alive for another year and the House is expected to approve a similar measure soon. The program expires June 30.

IF THE extension is approved, the Congress is expected to consider major changes in the program. As a consequence, this is the time to evaluate the centers rather than in a crisis situation when federal funds are to be withdrawn. We expect that the evaluation would result in an appreciation that would warrant funding without direct federal grants, but the evaluation should be made in a noncrisis situation.

In brief let us say now that the center programs are good ones and that we will finance them even if federal support is withdrawn. — A.B.

Too much unbridled power

Tom Wicker

The House, as usual, has sustained President Nixon's veto, this time of a misdirected congressional effort to remove two high officials from office, then to assert the Senate's right to approve their reappointment.

This may suggest that the Watergate disclosures have not reduced Nixon's political clout as much as might have been expected; but it does not change the necessity, made urgent by these same disclosures, for a stronger public check on the White House staff.

The bill Nixon vetoed was ill-advised and, as some members of Congress thought, unconstitutional, because it attempted to assert a roundabout and retroactive right of approval over two men already in office. Nevertheless, there appears to be no constitutional barrier — certainly there is no question of propriety or necessity — to prevent Congress from legislating its right to confirm future appointees to positions of immense institutional power.

NO ONE WILL question the right of a President or any high official to have a small, personal, private staff immediately answerable to him alone. Nor will such persons ever be without considerable power, which will always flow from such a close and confidential relationship with the President.

It is quite a different matter, however, when such personal assistants and advisers also are given great institutional positions, in some cases superior in fact to constitutional offices, in all cases cloaked in vast executive authority and the ability to affect the lives and fortunes of every American.

When the President's budget director — once primarily a technical adviser, although admittedly an important one — becomes Director of the Office of Management and Budget, with a fiscal and policy jurisdiction making him one of the two or three most powerful men in the government, surely he should be subject at least to the same congressional scrutiny routinely required for Cabinet officers, their assistants, federal judges and any number of regulatory and independent agency officials — some of virtually no real authority.

ent agency officials — some of virtually no real authority.

THUS, WHEN Nixon named John Ehrlichman his special counsel at the time the administration was formed that was his right, without congressional intercession. But when Nixon organized the Domestic Council, with authority over several Cabinet departments and great responsibility for all domestic policies, why should Ehrlichman, merely by changing his chair on the White House staff, have been given such great authority without any kind of hearing, or testimony, or approved by anyone?

Men in such positions do not merely wield great executive and administrative powers, which would be reason enough to demand more than one man's approval of their appointments. If considered only as staff aides to the President — which makes a mockery of language as well as of political fact — they can readily evoke "executive privilege" (if that concept survives Watergate); they can also refuse to testify publicly and in congressional hearings, as Cabinet officers routinely must; and they can exercise that far greater, truly immeasurable but intangible power of saying to other officials, "the President wishes. . ." (whether he does or not).

Power, of necessity, has shifted legitimately to the executive branch, thence even in more concentrated form to the White House. In a century of technological advance and extraordinary involvement in a world made small by swift communication. That is no reason why even more power should be collected by the White House, or why the power already residing there should not be more thoroughly checked and balanced, at least by Senate scrutiny of the personalities involved.

Power insufficiently controlled and personalities insufficiently scrutinized were, in fact, at the ugly roots of the Watergate scandal, and even more surely at the uglier roots of the "internal security" scheme for illegal surveillance that Nixon and his men put together in 1970. If, as has been reported, that plan was for a resumption of practices common in every administration from Roosevelt's to Kennedy's, the point is only made the more clearly that the rush of uncontrolled power to the Presidency has made of it all too nearly a Frankenstein's monster.

Italian pressures in New York

William F. Buckley

one more obvious than the second. The first was that Mr. Biaggi had quite blatantly lied first to the leaders of the Conservative party, then to the people of New York City. People who lie about particulars ("I never took the 5th") do not participate in the immunities that cover people who lie in generalities ("I will reduce city spending").

And secondly, conservatives are pretty much devoted to the proposition that to take the fifth amendment gives legitimate rise to negative inferences.

But Mr. Mahoney ran into solid opposition from the county leaders. The majority of them refused to endorse any move to deprive Mr. Biaggi of the nomination.

Why?

Really, there isn't a reason that harmonizes with the principles the Conservative party was founded to serve. I fear very much that I know the principal reason for their attitude, and it is the reluctance to repudiate Mr. Biaggi because he has a conspicuously Italian name.

A FEW YEARS ago Italians in New York particularly were urged to cultivate a racial self-consciousness, to which end an Italian Anti-Defamation League was formed, which, over a brief period of time, made a special nuisance of itself and even persuaded some publishers and producers to decline to use the term mafia or mafioso, which terms were rejected as invidiously anti-Italian. Altogether natural sentiments of national pride and a resentment against ethnic discrimination developed some Italians into the kind of self-consciousness that makes some Jews and some Irishmen insufferable. Why any Italian-American, who has running in his veins the blood of Caesar, Machiavelli, Dante, and Michaelangelo, needs, in order to acquire ethnic assurance, the mayorality of New York City, no one could begin to hope to explain. But I warrant that if Mr. Biaggi's name had been Sloan, or Kettering, he'd have been bounced as unceremoniously as Mr. Biaggi should have been bounced.

Ironically, there is another Italian-American running for mayor, and he is uncontested on the Republican ticket. It is a further irony that four years ago the same man beat Lindsay in the Republican primary, and had Conservative party backing. His name is John Marchi. He is a conservative, a legislator of long experience, a man of great integrity who, I for one hope, will be the next mayor of New York.

Security apparatus wrecked

has been compelled to invoke national security as an explanation.

AND IT IS national security that must be the victim in the end. The long and short of it is this: In an earlier time of near-revolutionary ferment and outbreaks in this country — in some instances outbreaks that had "foreign support" — the President set up intelligence countermeasures which were both entirely justified and manifestly a part of his simple duty.

Eager-beaver subordinates, unwisely unchecked and inadequately supervised, perverted and carried these wise and necessary programs right out the window into witless irrelevances such as the Watergate affair.

They have now stained the President's administration, and before the end has come they will have forced him to break the cover on operations, plans and techniques that in the interest of every American should never have been disclosed. Why will this occur? Because investigators are going to need all the facts, including those facts that truly involve and by their publication will compromise the most basic of national security, so as to weigh Mr. Nixon's conduct and that of subordinates.

This columnist had long believed that the President had been let down by some of his own people. How very far he has in fact been let down is now emerging. His proper concern for real security has been made to appear to some in the public as nonsense and a mere alibi. The "some" are those who do not or cannot understand the infinite gulf that lies between legitimate security operations and concerns and the childish bugged-mugger of the James McCord types who bugged the Watergate.

So it is that security itself gets a bad name among many. And it is not fashionable to attempt any defense of the kind of devoted, honorable and indispensable intelligence work upon which the ultimate safety of the whole country so depends.

A COMIC-STRIP, juvenile-minded skepticism tends now to see all

"bugging" as both equal and equally wrong — whether immoral, lawless and puerile, as in Watergate, or conducted for the soundest of reasons under the vast sanction of the inherent and unalterable right of sheer national self-defense. This is not to say that even justifiable surveillances cannot be abused; there is always that risk.

I believe Mr. Nixon's explanation of this thing, I also believe that in the very nature of this thing his necessary explanation will raise more and more questions until a shambles is made of matters having nothing whatever to do with Watergate or with partisan politics in any shape or form.

Rarely have so few men done so much harm to so many, and so much has been done by those who conceived and ran this shabby intrusion into a building so ironically appropriate as a setting. For the famous Watergate, as a structure, is in fact the very model of a kind of plastic pseudo-importance that animated this enterprise from first to last.

Why do we love secrets?

WASHINGTON — In retrospect it is easy to see that President Nixon loved secrets too much. He was not alone in that vice. Lyndon Johnson before him loved secrets to excess, and often boasted of the secrets to which he alone was privy.

Only the President, he was always telling us, had all the facts.

PROBABLY ALL of us are in love with secrets, although not for the reasons governments love them. When the Pentagon papers were first published there was considerable public protest that "secrets" were being broadcast, although scarcely a soul in Christendom who read all the material could have said precisely what among that mountain of wordage was "secret."

President Nixon was among those alarmed by the publication. This is one of the more absorbing points made in justification of his assembling that undercover Laurel-and-Hardy White House police force, "the plumbers," who bungled the entire administration into its predicament.

"National security" is the President's plea. "Secrets" were leaking. And when secrets are in danger, anything goes.

There are suggestions that he was not the first among recent Presidents to go this route. As for wiretapping and bugging — the present White House group must be especially embittered about being the father and mother of the Big Brotherly ear, for it is the common assumption in Washington — it used to be called "paranoia," but we are all wiser now — that it has been done for years.

The eavesdropping, of course, is useful not only to catch rascals who are exposing secrets, but also for unearthing new secrets for placing in secret dossiers for secret use by secret men for secret purposes. "Betting the goods" on people seems increasingly to preoccupy political men.

When we assume them to be worrying about getting the price of eggs down, they are often, in fact, scanning some secret police wiretap transcript revealing that John Doe has unorthodox sexual habits.

Government's use of secrecy is rational. Most secrets probably consist of material whose publication would cause the government political embarrassment and papers which government workers classify secret on the theory that what the public doesn't know won't hurt the government worker doing the classifying.

All this is perfectly understandable. Information is power; government people naturally want to hold information as closely as possible to keep power from getting away. A public which has all the facts the President has is in a position to tell the President he didn't know how to think straight, although likelihood of its doing so seems negligible.

HOW THEN DO WE account for the public love of secrets? Perhaps it derives from the natural desire to want the world to be easy to understand.

In this view the very idea of there being these marvelous government secrets is comforting. As long as our guys have the secrets, we are safe. In a black-and-white world good guys are beset by bad guys in the hire of madmen out to control the world.

It is understandable that a public busy with so many other interests should prefer the child's view of Mr. Big plotting to get the secrets. On the other hand, a government with that view which set out to outwit the enemy might very well, as this one seems to have done, end by outwitting itself.

A 'no' vote on ice arena

At a special election June 5 the people of Winona are being asked to vote on the general proposition as to whether or not Winona should build an ice arena facility.

The only choice we will have is on the general proposition as to whether or not Winona should have an ice facility. Nevertheless, a favorable vote would be a binding decision that action must be taken.

Personally, I think the intelligence of the voters is being insulted when they are asked to vote on a blank check proposition of this kind. I am not averse to the idea of an ice facility of some kind for the city. I think the time is close, or at hand, when a skating facility will be as essential to a city's recreation program as ball fields, tennis courts, or swimming accommodations. But, until I have seen evidence of some in depth study on the part of the proponents and the council so that they are in a position to present a comprehensive summary as to location, financing, costs, operating expense, use programs, etc., I could only vote no at this time.

I think most voters might be influenced in their vote if they knew whether the location would fit into an expanding recreation program for the city; if it were to be financed by bond, taxes, contributions, or a combination of these methods; or what the limits of expenditure were to be. An operating deficit is certain. What is an acceptable limit in relation to the recreational budget as a whole? What are acceptable charges for use? Do they fall within limits that will allow a general participation for all youth in the city, or is it going to end up as a facility that only a select few can use because of their own financial limitations?

Who is going to use it? Is the city building a facility for the benefit of the schools and colleges so that all the prime time is monopolized by them, or is the general unorganized public going to have reasonable access and reasonable time guaranteed for their use?

At the present state of research and planning that this project seems to be in, it would seem that the "no" votes should prevail. I think if the voting should go this way it might be comparable to tabling a motion with the admonition that when the home work has been properly done, and you know what you are talking about, and have a comprehensive program to present fully developed, come and see us again.

Regrets from woman in jail

This is being written in my room at the Minnesota Correctional Institution for Women in Shakopee. The institution isolates about 54 women, many of them no older or worse than you.

Society calls this place a reformatory, an institution, a correctional center. I call it a prison at the end of a long road. It's the end of the road for some of the women here; for others you might say it's the "beginning of the end." It's what you put into it. For me prison is going to be a highway not a dead end.

I'M ONE OF THE 54 inmates. I'm a prisoner. I'm a convict. It doesn't matter why I'm here or how long I'm going to be here, nor does it matter what you may think of me because your opinion isn't going to make me stay here any longer or any less; nor is it going to make me my shame and the shame I brought upon my family any easier to bear.

All that should really matter to you is that one day I was a normal person and the next I leaped across that narrow line that separates the decent from the indecent. I've violated a number of laws. Consequently I'm up to my neck in the direst social muck known to society—prison.

There's really a lot more in serving a prison term than just being locked up. There's loss of identity, character and of course ridicule from society, but the worst pain of all is when you're visited by your family. You notice the added lines in your mother's face and the extra tinge of gray hair. The tear-filled eyes of your children when visiting hours are over with and you know that they've suffered a lot more than you have. It twists you up inside, it makes you sick, it hurts!

LISTEN PLEASE. Crime doesn't pay enough money to compensate for all the hurt and heartaches a person has to go through in prison. This is our final reward for drinking, taking dope, forgery, armed robbery and for accidentally killing someone.

For those of you that are interested I have some advice. Before you leap across that narrow line ask yourself if you're really ready to give up everything. Can you live with loneliness and regret. If you can't then you had better stop now. Loneliness and regret are your only companions in prison.

SMC sets day camp for pre-schoolers

A day camp program for pre-school children from 2 1/2 to kindergarten age will be conducted on the St. Mary's College campus beginning Monday and continuing through July 27. The camp has been arranged by a 1973 St. Mary's graduate and two seniors as an innovative endeavor in the application of their interest, knowledge and training for the benefit of Winona area pre-school children.

IT WILL PROVIDE an opportunity for mothers who are working or attending Winona schools to place their children under qualified care for the summer.

The camp will be in session Mondays through Fridays with two sessions each day, one from 9 a.m. to noon and the other from 1 to 4 p.m.

There will be a weekly fee charged for each session with reduced rates applicable when two children from the same family are enrolled.

Staff members will include Linda Burns, a spring graduate of St. Mary's with a bachelor of arts degree in sociology, and Diane Kozlak and Mary Pearson, St. Mary's seniors majoring in psychology.

Supervising the staff will be Mrs. Henry J. Przybylski, a paraprofessional in the winter pre-school program at St.

Mary's College with Dr. John Johnson, chairman of the college psychology department, and Dr. Julius Winkler, educational psychologist at St. Mary's, serving as consultants. Miss Burns explains that the purpose of the summer program will be to afford all pre-school children in the Winona area an opportunity for socialization with children of their age level. There will be an individualized approach to learning, the development of motor skills and muscle coordination through free play, creative art exercises and outdoor activities.

The camp also is designed to give continuity to children enrolled in the St. Mary's College pre-school program during the school year and provide a place for children of graduate students who are attending Winona's three colleges during the summer sessions.

THE DAY CAMP will utilize rooms and equipment at St. Joseph's Hall on the Terrace Heights campus, where the pre-school program is conducted during the school year, as well as areas outdoors.

Information regarding the summer program may be obtained by calling the office of the director of communications at St. Mary's.

Black market gas expensive

CHICAGO (AP) — Independent gasoline dealers say they have to buy gas at exorbitant prices or on a black market. And Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., says the Nixon administration and the major oil companies are responsible for the situation.

Some independent dealers testified Tuesday at a hearing in Chicago by Stevenson's consumer subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee.

William Glassman, vice president of the Liberty Petroleum Co., in Mount Vernon, Ill., said he has received calls at 2 a.m. from black marketeers with gas to sell.

Charles Hague, president of Tri America Oil Co., of Chicago, said Clark Oil and Refining Corp. told him they might be able to get him gas on the Amsterdam market at a cost that would make the pump price 48 cents a gallon.

The chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission said the independents' problems will be especially damaging to farmers.

Chairman Marvin S. Lieberman also said the major oil companies were trying to run the independents out of business. He urged the government to take immediate steps "to halt this market restructuring before it becomes an accomplished fact."

Stevenson said there is adequate evidence that "the major companies are using the shortage to drive competitors out of business."

Fuel shortage ends gas wars

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

The fuel shortage has ended bidding battles by major oil companies for bulk contracts, and some states and cities around the country are having difficulty getting supplies, even at higher prices.

Urban transit authorities also are feeling the crunch. About 30 have received notices of fuel curtailment, and at least two face the threat of having to cut back service.

Bulk buyers traditionally have purchased surplus fuel the major companies had left after supplying their stations. They got annual contracts and bargain prices.

Now the shortage has created a seller's market. The companies say they don't want to bid because they don't have the supply to meet the over-all demand. Observers note they also make more money on their retail trade.

New Jersey invited 24 firms to bid on a bulk gas contract and got one response. Frank M. Papale Jr., director of the state's Division of Purchase and Property, said the bid will be $384,000 more than last year.

Dallas County in Texas will pay 50 per cent more for fuel under its new contract and Los Angeles County, 67 per cent.

Linwood F. Ross, state purchasing agent for Maine, feels "we were lucky to get even one bid" on a new fuel contract. The price per gallon jumped six cents and will cost the state an additional $500,000.

The American Transit Association surveyed 90 city transit companies and found one-third reported that they had received fuel curtailment notices. But it noted most had not had to reduce services yet.

Stevenson said the President has used his authority to allocate fuel to needy regions and industries. He has used instead a program of voluntary allocations, Stevenson said.

Several witnesses urged that the program be made mandatory. ICC Chairman Lieberman called the voluntary plan a failure. The program is administered by the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas.

The office's deputy director, J. Leslie Reed, said the program may be made mandatory, depending on the findings of the hearing.

Five soldiers accused of aiding the enemy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says five U.S. soldiers accused of aiding the enemy while war prisoners allegedly sought political asylum from North Vietnamese military officials.

Two of them, Army S/Sgt. Robert P. Chenoweth of Portland, Ore., and John A. Young of Grayslake, Ill., allegedly cooperated with their captors "by constructing model aircraft for use by the North Vietnamese army in conducting target practice for their soldiers," at the POW camp, the Army said.

These skimpy details were gleaned from an Army summary made available late Tuesday after Air Force Col. Theodore W. Guy of Tucson, Ariz., formally charged the five Army enlisted men and three enlisted Marines with misconduct while under his command in a Hanoi POW compound known as The Plantation.

Meanwhile, it was uncertain how long it would take the Army and Marine Corps to decide whether the eight should be court-martialed.

The Army summary, only a little more than a page, included no specifics bearing on Guy's recent public statement that some POWs caused him and other Americans to be beaten and tortured by the North Vietnamese for establishing communication links among U.S. prisoners.

The Marine Corps did not provide any specifics on Guy's charges against the three Marine POWs, who, like the Army men, were accused of aiding the enemy, failing to obey orders and conspiracy.

The Marines located their three men within a few hours and gave them formal notice about the charges. But the Army still had not confirmed contact with their five former POWs by Tuesday evening.

A spokesman said the Army had been in touch with relatives of all five and that it had no reason to expect any serious difficulty in serving the papers. The five soldiers are on convalescent leave and are free to move around. At least a couple of them were reported traveling.

In addition to Chenoweth, 23, and Young, 27, the accused Army repatriates are Spec. 4 Michael P. Branch, 26, of Highland Heights, Ky.; S/Sgt. James A. Daly Jr., 25, Brooklyn, N.Y.; and S/Sgt. King D. Rayford, 27, of Chicago.

The Marines are S/Sgt. Alfonso Riate, 28, of Santa Rosa, Calif.; Sgt. Abel L. Kavanaugh, 24, Denver, Colo.; and Pvt. Frederick L. Elbert Jr., 25, Brentwood, N.Y.

The eight, held captive at least five years each, previously had been linked to anti-war statements and messages.

In an NBC interview Tuesday night, Daly said: "From my point of view, anyone to make charges, as far as an officer is concerned, and especially Col. Guy, would be to cover up very good for himself."

Lutheran school holds service for graduates

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Special graduation services were held Friday at St. John's Lutheran School here for 20 eighth grade students.

The Rev. Wayne Meyer delivered the sermon based on Luke 2:52. The Rev. David Gosdeck was liturgist and Robert Wolff was organist.

Diplomas were presented by Kenneth Heise, chairman of the board of education, assisted by Paul Zimmermann, eighth grade teacher and principal. Following the service, refreshments were served in the church basement.

The processional hymn was "Draw Us to Thee," and the recessional hymn, "Take My Life and Let It Be." The class hymn was "Abide With Me."

The graduates: Carla Anderson, Marvin Beck, Martha Bremer, Diane Dahman, Gerald Dohrn, Janet Dohrn, Dawn Dzwonkowski, Scott Dzwonkowski, Todd Eggenberger, Pamela Heilmann, Dale Holst, Kory Kohrs, Cathy Peters, Coleen Rutz, Ronald Schimpf, Deena Sprick, Donna Tesmer, Ralph Tomforde, Mary Weick and Noel Walters.

Enterprise Way safety rest area on I-90 approved

The Enterprise Way state safety test area on Interstate 90 has been approved by the Federal Highway Administration on a 64-acre site about 1.5 miles east of CSAH 29, off the freeway's eastbound lane in Winona County.

The Minnesota Highway Department received approval on site and design which include a central building with washrooms and sanitation facilities. Two picnic shelters will be built along with paved parking for 35 cars and 15 trucks or car-trailer combinations.

The name recognizes the extinct community of Enterprise on the banks of nearby Rush Creek in the early 1850s. The settlement had been known for flour milling and match manufacturing.

Commercial banks move into investment breach

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — As Wall Street begins to get frantic over its loss of the small investor, who was unceremoniously showed to the door four or five years ago, other institutions are thinking of moving into the breach.

Commercial banks, for example, have long been able to provide a stock-buying service for their customers, although none of the prominent ones broadcast the fact.

As a courtesy more or less, the bank merely processed the order for the customer and charged a small fee for doing so. It sent the order on through a broker at the unusual commission.

Now that the small investor is wary of Wall Street and often suspicious of brokers, some banks are thinking of expanding the service. A few have.

This month the Chase Manhattan of New York and the Security Pacific National of Los Angeles offered to deduct as little as $20 or as much as $500 from its customers' checking accounts in order to buy stock.

The money deducted will be pooled for the purchase of any of 25 securities each month, with the customer paying the brokerage fee and a bank charge of 5 per cent of the amount purchased. The customer selects the stock.

While this seems to be just another middleman between the small investor and the market, it does offer a partial remedy to some of the biggest problems encountered by individual stock buyers.

Poor record-keeping, for example, has been one of the great weaknesses of the securities industry and probably has done as much as anything to scare away investors.

Banks, however, are clearly better record-keepers than brokers. "The banks, moreover, can demand service. Being institutions — which Wall Street today doesn't know whether to love, fear or just respect — they can demand efficiencies of service and discount prices by volume buying."

Many investors will recall that this arrangement sounds very much like the old Monthly Investment Plan once heavily promoted by brokers as the route to people's capitalism.

For as little as $40 a month or a quarter, the MIP permitted individuals to buy shares or fractions of shares on a regular basis and thus, it was said, to participate in the great American wealth-making machine.

Mines could add 3,000 new jobs

BEMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — A Minnesota Department of Natural Resources official says studies had shown some 3,000 new jobs would be generated by nickel and copper development in northern Minnesota.

Eugene Gere, director of the Division of Water, Soils and Minerals, said Tuesday night the United States economy is using more metals now than are being mined. He quoted reports prepared by a task force on base metals mining in Minnesota and another by a citizens advisory committee to the Governor's Environmental Quality Council (EQC).

Some 40 persons attended the first of four scheduled meetings by the council held at Bemidji State College. The hearings are being held to air the feasibility of developing copper and nickel mining, particularly in north-eastern Minnesota, which contains some of the nation's waning wilderness.

Another meeting is scheduled today at Ely, a third at Duluth Thursday, and the final one at St. Paul June 5.

Gere said a survey made by a private firm for the EQC showed a majority of northern Minnesota citizens heavily favor additional mining activity. Those in southern Minnesota were less enthusiastic about it, he said.

Gere said if mining were done in the area, it would be underground and would not violate the wilderness setting, adding that existing water and air pollution regulations would safeguard the area in that respect.

Dennis Cherne, coordinator of the Ely Action Program, said people of his region fear mining of copper and nickel would create desolation in the wilderness and hurt the tourist industry.

State Commissioner of Natural Resources Robert Herbst chaired the meeting, assisted by Ray Lappegaard, state highway commissioner.

Complaint filed against lobbyists

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — State Rep. James Ulland says some opponents of his "ban the can" bill should be thrown in jail for breaking House lobbying rules.

Ulland filed a complaint against 15 lobbyists with the House Lobbyist Registration Committee, charging them with either not registering or not complying with financial disclosure regulations.

He noted that a section of the state constitution allows the House to jail for 24 hours any person who displays "contemptuous behavior" toward the House.

"I'd like to see some of these $50,000 a year guys in the Ramsey County Jail," Ulland said. "First, we'd have prison reform and second, we'd have true lobbyist registration."

The complaint named can industry representatives and Minnesota labor union leaders.

All had testified before House committees this spring against the Oregon-style bill to require a deposit on throwaway beverage containers.

Ulland's bill was pigeonholed in the House Rules Committee as the session ended. A Senate companion measure, sponsored by DFL'er Winston Borden, Brainerd, was on the Senate floor.

The House lobbyist rule requires that any person who receives pay for legislative activity must register and file expense statements.

Ulland said House rules provide that unregistered lobbyists can be banned from future appearances or publicly censured.

His complaint went to a committee chaired by Rep. John Lindstrom, DFL-Willmar. Other members are Bruce Vento, DFL-St. Paul; Robert Bell, R-Roseville, and Leonard Myrah, R-Spring Grove.

The Ulland-Borden bill was opposed by organized labor and Gov. Wendell Anderson largely on grounds it would cost jobs in the container industry.

The Oregon law does not actually ban throwaway containers but makes it impractical to continue their use.

Farm exports hit record in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices and larger shipments of wheat and feed grain helped boost U.S. farm exports to a record of $1.4 billion during March, the Agriculture Department says.

Calling the dollar value of shipments "an astonishing record," the department said Tuesday the March total was up 20 per cent from last February and double the level of March 1972.

For the first nine months of the fiscal year which began last July 1, farm exports through March were valued at an all-time high of $8.89 billion.

The figures were published by the Economic Research Service in its monthly report on foreign agricultural trade.

The report said that since last summer, when big sales of grain to the Soviet Union emerged, the actual quantity of farm shipments rose sharply and accounted for about 60 per cent of the increase in value.

But sharply higher prices for some items added the remainder, the report said.

"Wheat, for example, averaged $1.90 per bushel during July-March ... compared with $1.68 a year earlier," the report said.

Feed grains averaged slightly over $61 per metric ton, compared with $54 a year earlier, and rice averaged $223 a ton, compared with $183 a year earlier, officials said.

The report noted the dollar figures were for the export value of products at U.S. ports and included inland freight and other charges to get it to shipping points.

Princess Anne plans marriage

LONDON (AP) — The engagement of Princess Anne and Mark Phillips replaced the government sex scandal today as Britain's major news story. "The wedding is expected to be the most spectacular to be seen in Europe for many years," proclaimed the Times of London.

Down in the Wiltshire village of Great Somerford, glasses were raised until the small hours to the son of the wealthy local squire whose engagement to the only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip was announced Tuesday.

The 24-year-old soldier, horseman and commoner, the descendant of a coal miner, is expected to marry the 22-year-old princess in the fall. November, the month the queen celebrates her 26th wedding anniversary, is being mentioned as the most likely time.

The wedding will be the first for a child of the queen. Court sources said it probably will take place in Westminster Abbey following a royal procession through the streets of London.

Anne is fourth in line of succession to the British throne behind her three brothers; and Phillips is expected to be given a title.

As soon as Anne weds, her annual stipend jumps from $37,500 a year to $87,500. Phillips earns just over $5,000 as a lieutenant in the Queen's Dragoon Guards. But his father is wealthy, and the queen is likely to help the newlyweds out with a contribution from her fortune.

Announcement of the engagement had been expected for some time, Phillips having been the princess' constant companion whenever he could get away from his regiment in West Germany.

The couple are enthusiastic horsemen and met at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, where he was a member of the British equestrian team. The romance blossomed through a series of horse meets and fox hunts.

Mobile homes hit hardest by storms

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The tornado's awesome power has affected thousands of Americans this spring, but none have been hit harder than those who live in mobile homes.

Deaths and destruction left by twisters and windstorms have prompted efforts to encourage both effective anchoring of mobile homes and construction of shelters by owners of mobile home parks.

Allen Pearson of the National Weather Service's Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City said about 60 persons have died in storms this year, about 24 of them in mobile homes.

Georgia, South Carolina, Texas and Ohio were the states listed by Pearson as having been hit hardest by tornadoes this year. Numerous twisters also have been reported in 14 other states.

Total property damage has not been estimated, but most experts agree a high percentage of it was suffered by mobile homes.

Nationwide, at least three million mobile homes are used as a primary residence.

"Ninety per cent of all mobile home wind damage is preventable with proper anchoring," Pearson said. "But fewer than one per cent of the mobile homes I've seen have been tied down."

Pearson also suggests that shelters be constructed at mobile home parks as a precaution against bad weather, including high winds not classified as tornadoes.

Alabama Civil Defense Director C. J. Sullivan estimates mobile homes are 10 times as vulnerable to high winds as conventional homes. He noted that one person was killed and 21 injured in 32 mobile homes destroyed in storms this year in Alabama.

Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., and Rep. Lou Frey, R-Fla., have introduced the National Mobile Home Recreational Vehicle Safety Act of 1973 to make effective anchoring of mobile homes mandatory.

Four states already have tie-down legislation.

The cost of tying down a mobile home ranges from $100 to $250, according to the Mobile Living Communications in Chicago, a public service organization funded by Foremost Insurance Co.

Scout troop 6 to note anniversary

Boy Scout Troop 6, Central United Methodist Church, will celebrate its 62nd anniversary as a chartered troop at 6 p.m. Saturday in the church's Guild Hall.

A potluck supper will be followed by an anniversary program, including a Tenderfoot Investiture and an Eagle Scout Court of Honor. Four Tenderfoot candidates will be honored along with five candidates for Eagle Scout. Several previous Troop 6 Eagle Scouts will be present.

Speaking will be Clarence Hammett, Gamehaven Council executive. Also addressing the group will be Harry Buck, Rochester; Robert McDougal, Minneapolis and the Rev. Harlyn Hagmann, Central United Methodist Church.

Special music will be provided by Brian Masysa, Steve Mueller, Terry Block and Mike Deutschman.

Intruder finds it doesn't pay to sleep on the job

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An intruder learned the value Tuesday of getting a good day's sleep before going to work.

Mrs. Edna G. Polin told police she awoke about dawn and found a stranger asleep on her living room floor.

Unable to locate her wallet from which to obtain a dime for a telephone call, she called from a neighbor's home.

Raymond Hammer, 23, in whose pocket police said the wallet was found, was taken to Milwaukee County Court and was convicted of theft.

Personal injury lawsuit to be retried in fall

LANESBORO, Minn. — A Lanesboro village employee's lawsuit against the Lanesboro School District will be retried as a result of a reversal of a Fillmore County District Court ruling by the Minnesota Supreme Court.

The personal injury suit, brought by Amos Thoen, maintenance man for the village, will be rescheduled for the fall term of Fillmore County District Court.

Thoen was struck and injured by a Lanesboro school bus while erecting a utility pole along a village street in 1968.

A District Court jury in 1971 set Thoen's damages at $153,000 but the jury also ruled both parties were 50 percent negligent, thus denying Thoen any money.

However, the Supreme Court ruled that the trial court judge, O. Russell Olson, Rochester, erred in giving contradictory instruction to the jury.

Judge Olson told the jury that no law required Thoen to wear a hard hat while working. Then the judge implied that failing to wear a hard hat was one of the circumstances which could be considered in deciding whether the conduct of the parties constituted negligence.

Thoen's attorney, Duane Peterson, Winona, said that a Supreme Court ruling subsequent to the trial and a new state law may work to Thoen's benefit.

Peterson pointed out that a jury now can be told that finding both parties 50 percent negligent means that the plaintiff cannot be awarded damages. Previously, that was prohibited and juries did not realize that they were denying damages, he said.

Winonan jailed after failing to post cash bond

LA CROSSE, Wis. — Delaine E. Olson, 18, Winona, is being held in La Crosse County jail here after failing to post a $5,000 cash bond set by Judge Leonard Floraff.

Olson will appear in County Court Friday for preliminary hearing on charges of taking indecent liberties with a 15-year-old La Crosse girl and battery on a 16-year-old La Crosse boy.

Assistant District Attorney Mark Lukoff had sought the $5,000 bond on Olson, pointing out that Olson had an extensive juvenile record in Minnesota and that he was wanted after jumping bond on a Winona County charge.

Olson allegedly accosted the girl on a La Crosse street and when her 16-year-old friend came to her assistance, he was struck by Olson.

A WOMAN'S PURSE

NEW YORK (AP) — What does a business man carry in his attache case?

Samsomite did a survey and found that the radio-TV and ad agency crowd average 14 per cent for liquor, 23 per cent for cigars and cigarettes and 18 per cent for playing cards. Accountants, lawyers and stock brokers averaged 6 per cent for liquor, 14 per cent for tobacco and 6 per cent for playing cards.

A New York lawyer said that most men carry papers they don't want to leave in the office for peeping toms and work that should have been handled last week.

A Colorado stock broker said he carries his credit card wallet in his attache case since "it's too bulky to carry on my person."

County welfare chief funds WIN program at local level

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A county welfare director who says he is fed up with the state's work incentive program (WIN) has decided to bypass state control by funding the program at the local level.

Officials of the state say state intervention is possible if the county does not provide an alternative acceptable under federal regulations.

Marshall Graff, director of the Jackson County social services department, has been saying WIN fails to get persons off welfare rolls.

"We have got cases in this state where persons with monthly incomes of $700 or $800 still draw public assistance grants because of employment exemptions," Graff said.

WIN provides federal subsidies for private institutions which hire welfare recipients.

Federal regulations require uniform administration of the program statewide. Graff has said he hears some other counties also are considering going it alone.

The state may administer the program itself, enter a contract with individual counties or contract with a private agency. Robert Sizemore, deputy administrator in the Division of Family Services, said.

Graff said his office will administer the program without signing a contract with the state or entering an agreement with a private agency.

"In the interest of our clients," Graff said, "we will still provide those services that are reasonable and realistic."

Fred Hinckle, deputy secretary of the Department of Health and Social Services, questioned whether the county can legally refuse to provide services as outlined under federal law.

"If a county decides it does not want to play ball, we might be in jeopardy of federal requirements statewide," Hinckle said.

He said the state might intervene in cases in which counties abandon the program without an acceptable alternative.

"We do have substantial supervisory authority over county agencies," Hinckle said.

The program has been censured on grounds it does not remove persons from welfare rolls, and discriminates against the working poor.

Critics maintain a low percentage of welfare recipients are brought into the program and that few work their way out.

The program is administered by the state Department of Health and Social Services and the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

Most of the state's 72 counties shown employable skills gets have entered into a contract.

with the state and are reimbursed for their services.

Hinckle said he is aware of some criticism of the program. He points to the number and type of recipients enrolled.

Most often, he said, a person who has been employed during the 12 months preceding enrollment in the program and has shown employable skills gets first crack at the program.

A proposed 1973-75 budget, was asked whether his panel had conferred privately.

"I have no comment," he said.

A newsman reported he had heard there was a private meeting, and Hollander replied: "Who is your source? You don't have a shield law to hide behind yet."

Other members of the committee said some of them had met in the statehouse office of a member, Rep. Dennis Conto, D-Milwaukee.

Rep. Anthony Earl, D-Wausau, said he, Conto and Rep. Herbert Grover, D-Shawano, had met.

Asked if any of the three Republicans were present, Earl said: "We were joined later."

At that point, Hollander interrupted and advised Earl: "Let's get going, Tony."

Hollander then hanged his gavel, and the conference committee deliberations were officially under way.

After a one-hour public meeting in which the committee acted only on noncontroversial budget issues, Republican Sen. Raymond Johnson of Eau Claire, said an informal session might be held before the committee met again.

Asked if he opposes news coverage of informal sessions, Johnson said: "It depends on what is being discussed."

Rail car ferry damaged by fire will be scrapped

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP) — The fire-damaged City of Saginaw, believed to be the Great Lakes' first electrically driven railroad car ferry, is to be scrapped in Spain after being made seaworthy in Port Colborne, Ont.

The 1929 vessel owned by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway before being bought by a Port Colborne metals firm, has been docked at Manitowoc, since damaged in July, 1971, by a $500,000 fire.

Six-man panel works on compromise budget plan

By WILLIAM S. BECKER
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A six-man legislative committee went to work Tuesday in search of a compromise state budget which can win the approval of the politically divided legislature.

Three Republican senators and three Democratic assemblymen met only an hour, quickly approving as part of their committee proposal a number of noncontroversial agency budgets.

Each time a potentially troublesome policy question came up, such as Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's proposals, the panel agreed to set it aside temporarily.

The committee was formed last week to work out party differences over a $2.7 billion budget proposed for the 1973-75 fiscal biennium by Democrats.

Lucey's budget was modified in the Democrat-controlled Joint Finance committee, approved by the Democrat-controlled assembly, but was rejected two weeks ago in the GOP-dominated Senate.

The compromise committee approved budgets for the Department of Agriculture, the legislature and its agencies, the state treasurer and secretary of state offices, and for county and circuit courts.

It approved proposed budgets for the commissioners of banking, credit unions, savings and loans and securities, the State Investment Board, the Great Lakes Compact Commission, the Minnesota-Wisconsin Boundary Area Commission, the Mississippi River Parkway Planning Commission, the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission and the State Judicial Council.

The proposals approved were the same as those forwarded to the legislature by the Joint Finance Committee, minus "policy issues" raised by the governor.

Included in the county and circuit-court budget were proposals to combine the county courts of Pepin and Buffalo counties, and to provide state payment of some of the county costs for indigent defendants.

The conference committee set aside until later the proposed budget for the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

It voted 4-2 against a motion by its chairman, Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, to keep alive without funding the state's Council on Home and Family.

Sen. Raymond Johnson, R-Eau Claire, said continuation of the council could cut the workload of the Department of Health and Social Services by "reducing family breakup and disintegration."

Hollander's motion was defeated after the Assembly majority leader, Anthony Earl, D-Wausau, called the agency an example of "the futility of the state trying to get into businesses better done by private organizations and churches."

MOSLEMS UP FEES
ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Moslem religious leaders who perform marriages in Pakistan have bowed to inflation and raised their fees for the ceremony by at least 50 percent. The prices range from $4 to $40, depending on the couple's standard of living.

Budget panel chairman

No comments on private talks

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A legislative leader declined extensive comment Tuesday when questioned about reports that his compromise budget committee had met privately despite Wisconsin's antisecrecy statute.

The open-meetings law prohibits government units from conducting business behind closed doors although some exceptions are granted for matters involving personnel, salaries and land acquisitions.

Sen. Walter Hollander, Republican chairman of the six-man Senate Assembly committee which is to iron out partisan disputes over Wisconsin's publicans were present, Earl said: "We were joined later."

At that point, Hollander interrupted and advised Earl: "Let's get going, Tony."

Hollander then hanged his gavel, and the conference committee deliberations were officially under way.

After a one-hour public meeting in which the committee acted only on noncontroversial budget issues, Republican Sen. Raymond Johnson of Eau Claire, said an informal session might be held before the committee met again.

Asked if he opposes news coverage of informal sessions, Johnson said: "It depends on what is being discussed."

"You are going to find this committee is going to be very public," Johnson said.

"Just because a couple of guys sit down to discuss it does not mean there is any official action or even any debate," he said.

The other Republican member of the committee, besides Hollander and Johnson, is Sen. Robert Kasten of Brown Deer.

Asked about closed meetings by the committee Republican Atty. Gen. Robert Warren told newsmen "there apparently would be little anyone could do."

Warren said he favors a stronger open meetings law with penalties of $100 to $200 for violators.

school will be graduating with honors. A minimum of 90 percent is required for this distinction.

Feltes is a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist and is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students. He is a member of the National Honor Society, Band Letter Club, A club and symphonic, dance and marching bands. He participated in basketball and football all four years, winning a state gold medal last year. He was 1972 Arcadia representative to Badger Boys State where he was selected a state senator and played in the BBS band and a 1973 representative to Dorian Music Festival at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa. He was yearbook editor and business manager this year and member of the symphonic, pep, dance and marching bands. He was brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow. He is also a member of the Arcadia 100 Mile Club.

Pavlicin is president of the National Honor Society, senior class vice president and treasurer of the Students Service Club. He has been a member of the Arcadia forensics team all four years, winning a state gold medal last year. He was 1972 Arcadia representative to Badger Boys State where he was selected a state senator and played in the BBS band and a 1973 representative to Dorian Music Festival at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa. He was yearbook editor and business manager this year and member of the symphonic, pep, dance and marching bands. He was a member of the sound crew for the senior class play and has participated in district and state solo-ensemble work. He is the recipient of the biology award band letter and manager letters for track and basketball.

He is a member of the Wisconsin Federation of Young Republicans and last fall served as Trempealeau County chairman of Young Wisconsin Voters for the President. He has also done hospital volunteer work and participated in the La Crosse Symphony Orchestra one year. He is employed part time by Woychik Dairy of Arcadia.

Both young men plan to attend college.

Vocational schools in membership squabbles

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Squabbles among vocational school districts in central and northwestern Wisconsin surfaced again Tuesday before the state Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education.

Portage County's request to be detached from one district and join another was tabled until at least next year by the board.

Polk County was promised an answer on a similar request within 90 days.

The board's authority to merge vocational school districts figures in the cases because of local challenges to that authority.

Each county contains large numbers of students who choose to attend vocational schools outside their districts, spokesmen said.

Students who choose to go to school in Wausau rather than Wisconsin Rapids pile up a "huge tuition bill," LeRoy Jones Jr., of Wausau, a board member, said.

Having Polk County belong to the Indianhead district in northwestern Wisconsin is asinine, considering how many of its students want to go to school in Eau Claire, Chris Dueholm of Polk County said.

"Superior is twice as far away from the southern part of the county as Eau Claire," Dueholm said.

The Indianhead district, comprising 10 counties and parts of two more, was created in July from two old districts.

At the same time, the board tried to merge the Midstate district with a district based in Wausau.

Wood County citizens challenged the action in court.

Circuit Court in Madison ruled the board has the authority to modify but not merge districts.

The board appealed to the Wisconsin Supreme Court, where the case is pending. Dueholm said St. Croix County is thinking of petitioning to switch vocational districts along with Polk County.

The two counties once had their own district along with Pierce County.

They could pay nearly a third of a $3.5 million Indianhead district expansion project which received the board's okay Tuesday, Dueholm said.

Eugene Lehmann, state director of vocational education, said Portage County's $334.2 million in equalized valuation gives it nearly one-third the tax base of the Midstate district.

Without Portage County, the Wisconsin Rapids-based district would find itself levying taxes at the 1.7 mill-rate ceiling, Lehmann said.

Philip Lerman, board member, called the placement of Wisconsin Rapids and Stevens Point in the same district an "ill-fated marriage."

"Local pride, as important as motherhood in central Wisconsin, is the root of the problem," Jones said.

"Of course, motherhood without a marriage is still a questionable thing," he added.

In other matters, the board was told a 20 per cent enrollment increase is expected in the technical school system in the next five years.

The current enrollment is about 234,800.

Spokesmen said the system's financial appetite can be expected to double in the same five years to more than $120 million.

The statistics are part of a five-year development plan approved by the board.

Enrollment in programs in the community technical colleges and affiliated high schools by the 1977-78 school year was forecast at more than 281,250.

The outline predicted 109,000 job openings in 1978 for persons with the type of training available in the system. In 1974, 100,000 job openings are forecast with the system producing 31,470 eligible students.

The plan said the enrollment increase is expected to begin easing about 1978, perhaps leading to a shift of personnel within the system and to some changes in curriculum.

The 1974 budget estimate is $78.6 million for 243,350 students, with funds drawn from state, federal and local sources.

Lake City church honors 37 seniors

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — St. John's Lutheran Church here Sunday honored 37 members who will graduate from Lincoln High School, Lake City, in commencement exercises Friday.

The Rev. David Gosdeck conducted the 11 a.m. Senior Recognition Service, which included special music by the Senior Choir and the High School Choir.

Following the service, a potluck dinner was served in the church basement with the seniors as honored guests.

Sheriff probes dog bite report

STOCKTON, Minn. — Roy Taylor, Stockton, has reported to county authorities that a stray dog came into his yard Monday afternoon about 5 and bit his son, Tod, 3, in the mouth. The dog is described as of golden color and indeterminate breed, somewhat smaller than a retriever. Anyone knowing of ownership of the dog or who might see the animal is asked to report to the Winona Sheriff's office at once. Otherwise, the boy will have to take anti rabies shots. upper 40s or lower 50s with daytime highs in the upper 60s or lower 70s.

North Yemen councilman assassinated
ADEN (AP) — Sheikh Mohammed Ali Othman, one of three members of North Yemen's Republican Council, was killed by a bomb fire outside his home in Ta'iz early today, the Yemeni government radio reported.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency, in a report from San'a, the Yemeni capital, said the assassins came from neighboring South Yemen.

Heavy border fighting between the two republics at the southwest corner of the Arabian peninsula was ended by a peace agreement in December. But new border troubles were reported last week in which at least 30 persons were killed or wounded.

President Abdul Rahman Iryani heads the Republican Council in North Yemen, and Othman was named to it last November. He was 63, a leader in the Ta'iz area and had been finance minister in the royalist regime that was overthrown in 1962.

Three days of official mourning were announced for the sheikh.

Stephan J. Delano, St. Charles city attorney, prosecuted the case and Roger Berg and Harold Littlefield, St. Charles policemen, testified for the state. Pierce testified in his own behalf. He was not represented by an attorney.

Goodview OK's assessment rolls for sewer project
Goodview village councilmen Tuesday night approved preliminary assessment rolls for 1972 street, sewer and water improvements and ordered public hearings after clerk Rex A. Johnson notifies property owners of their costs.

The projects were completed last year too late for preparation of assessment rolls and hearings in 1972, Johnson said. The improvements include Fifth Street and Ninth Street—49th Avenue surfacing, the Ninth Street sewer extension and the 44th Avenue water main extension.

Johnson is to complete the rolls and notify abutting property owners of assessments. Public hearings will be scheduled later, he said.

Councilmen also authorized $3,200 worth of seal coating on streets north of Sixth Street by Dunn Blacktop Co.

In special session May 23, they had approved a sanitary sewer agreement with Jerry Foster, developer of Hidden Valley Mobile Home Park. Foster will build and maintain the connection to the village system under terms of Goodview's treatment contract with Winona.

The park's maximum flow rate is set at 76,000 gallons per day. Foster will be billed for his share of the operation costs in the village system and a 10 percent surcharge on payments to Winona. The agreement will expire Sept. 21, 1992.

Car in wrong lane, coroner's jury rules

ALMA, Wis.—A Buffalo County coroner's jury decided after 90 minutes deliberation this morning that a 17-year-old rural Mondovi motorcyclecyclist was killed April 28 by an automobile driven by a rural Durand man.

The coroner's inquest, with Buffalo County Coroner Dr. Max O. Bachhuber presiding, investigated the circumstances surrounding the death of Rickie Klingel, Mondovi Rt. 3.

Klingel died of multiple injuries, including a severe leg injury, which were received in a motorcycle-car collision near Mondovi.

Driver of the car was Dean L. Brunner, 25, Durand Rt. 1, Wis.

THE CORONER'S jury ruled that the point of impact occurred in the motorcycle's lane of traffic.

Chester Wunderlich, Fountain City, was jury foreman. Other jurors: Winthrop Nogle, Mondovi; Ralph Knospe and Alvin Averbeck, Alma; John Skogstad, Mondovi, and Frank Vandewalker, Fountain City.

Witnesses included Buffalo County Deputy Tom Baertsch, Michael Birtzer, Mondovi police officer; Brunner; Dr. William BRUNNER, an instructor at Gilmanton High School, and a passenger in his car, Kay W. Anderson, Mondovi Rt. 3, were treated for injuries at the Mondovi hospital and released.

Photographs taken at the scene by Baertsch and a diagram which he had drawn showed that the impact of the car and motorcycle occurred in the middle of the motorcycle's lane of traffic.

Miss Rud's body was thrown 75 feet through the air, landing in the motorcycle's lane of traffic, to the right and ahead of the point of impact.

Klingel's body was just ahead and to the right of the point of impact, alongside the road.

Testimony revealed that after the collision the Brunner car continued on for 164 feet, then came to rest on the east side of the roadway, next to the motorcycle's lane. The car was facing the opposite direction it had been traveling.

The motorcycle was hurled about 40 feet after the collision.

Campus actions cripple role of MSCSA
The Minnesota State College Student Association (MSCSA), which represents state college students in relations with the legislature and state college board, has been crippled by actions last week on campuses here and in Mankato.

The Winona State College Student Senate last week voted to stop paying dues to the five-year-old lobby group.

At the same time, the student senate at Mankato State College voted to withdraw altogether from the organization, calling it a waste of time and money and charging it is a "paw" of State College Chancellor G. Theodore Mitau.

For the first time, MSCSA this year sent a lobbyist — former WSC Student Senate president Tim Penny — to the legislature, and it is around his effectiveness that part of the current controversy centers.

The senate at MSC sent three lobbyists of its own to the just-ended legislative session, and many student leaders there felt their own lobbyists did a better job than Penny.

This has created particular problems for MSCSA's new president, Curt Kephart, himself a student at MSC.

Kephart has slated a late summer conference in Bemidji to consider reorganization and other possible internal changes in an effort to head off collapse of the organization.

He said he is confident WSC student leaders will reconsider next fall, and is hopeful Mankato may eventually rejoin the organization.

City planners cancel meeting
The Winona City Planning Commission's regularly scheduled Thursday meeting has been cancelled.

There was no business to come before the commission, according to City Planning Director Charles Dillerud, commission secretary.

The planners will meet June 7, in regular session, and again June 14 to hold a public hearing on the city's new proposed land-use plan.

Frontenac open house will note river anniversary
FRONTENAC, Minn. (Special) — The open house at Frontenac State Park June 16 will commemorate the 300th anniversary of the discovery of the Mississippi River. Theme of the observance will be "The Birth of the River."

The park, located between old and new Frontenac, is now open. Water has been turned on in the park, buildings are open in the picnic area and the state campground is ready for use. No permit will be required for entrance to the park.

Mark Eichen is Park ranger. Regular rate for camping overnight in the park is $3; visit permits are $3 annual and $1 daily.

Nixon responds to fifth grader's portrait of him

A fifth grade student at Madison Elementary School has received an acknowledgement from President Nixon of a portrait she drew of him as a school art class project.

Heather McQueen, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. McQueen, 369 W. Broadway, was one of a number of children in Miss Sue Johnson's art classes at Madison and Central Elementary School who this spring drew portraits of famous persons and sent them to the subjects of their work.

Heather received a letter from a deputy special assistant to the President thanking her for the portrait and expressing the President's appreciation.

The letter was accompanied by the President's personal card, signed "Best wishes from Richard Nixon," and a booklet about the Nixon family and the White House.

The microscope was invented in 1590 by Zacharias Janssen, Dutch spectacle maker.

Alewives problem to be cut, experts say

CHICAGO (AP) — Alewives won't be the problem they were in the past on Lake Michigan beaches, fish experts say.

The current population of the small fish in the lake is 25 percent less than in the late 1960s, when a billion pounds of dead alewives washed up on Chicago's beaches and rotted there, preventing swimming, fishing and other water recreation.

The problem was common around the lake.

Ed Brown of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service laboratory in Ann Arbor, Mich., said numbers of the fish are expected to die this year, but it won't be nearly as bad as in the past.

"It is always characteristic of alewives to die off and we had some problems in 1971 and 1972, but nothing like 1966 and 1967," he said.

In the late 1960s, the alewives expended their food supply, they were in poor physical condition and they died. We do not expect anything as severe this year," he said.

Brown said there was an over abundance of alewives in the lake in the 1960s but that their population has dropped 25 percent. Why the population has dropped is not clear. Brown said the coho salmon's diet is 90 percent alewives and that the lake trout also eat quite a number.

"We're trying to determine now if the salmon and trout have played a role in stabilizing the alewife population. There also seems to be a control mechanism in the alewife population itself," Brown said.

Dr. Carol Norden of the Center for Great Lakes Studies at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee said there is nothing to indicate the population would be significantly lower or higher than it has been in the last three years which was far below the peak 1966-7 years.

The population appears to be stabilized, Dr. Norden said.

Ned E. Fogle, Great Lakes management specialist with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said there has been no substantial die-off since 1967.

Predatory fish such as the salmon and lake trout feed on alewives, he said. "We're at the point now where the alewife is a very important forage to these fish. We would be concerned if we lose the (alewife) population."

Observers in Indiana said a few dead alewives have floated onto shore but that the situation is "nothing approaching past problems."

Dead alewives already have washed ashore on some beaches in Chicago and the numbers are nothing compared with the millions of fish six years ago.

500 commuters led to safety after train tunnel fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Firemen led 500 trapped commuters to safety through a smoky railway tunnel beneath Park Avenue Tuesday night as an engine fire cut off Grand Central service for several hours.

Thousands of outbound travelers and commuters waited in the huge terminal and inbound passengers debarked miles from midtown.

president of the board of education. The senior high school band, directed by Don Rowlands, will play for the processional and recessional.

Baccalaureate services were held Sunday evening with the Rev. Harold Aasland Ettrick, delivering the main address. The Rev. William Helwig, Trempealeau, gave the invocation and pronounced the benediction. Vickie Rindahl played the organ for the processional and recessional and the mixed chorus sang.

Six hospitalized after collision

LAKE CITY, Minn. — Six persons remain hospitalized in Lake City Municipal hospital here today as the result of a head-on two-car collision shortly before 7 p.m. Tuesday about 4 1/2 miles south of Lake City on Highway 63.

Hospitalized are: Lawrence Johnson, 19, rural Zumbrota, driver of the southbound vehicle, listed in fair condition by hospital officials; Susan Lane, 18, rural Lake City, passenger in the Johnson vehicle, good condition; Roger Helle, 30, Rochester, driver of the northbound car, good condition;

Helle's wife, Peggy, 30, condition good; Allen Hoem, 29, Rochester, passenger in the Helle car, fair condition; Hoem's wife, Renae, 28, good condition.

Hospital spokesmen said all are being held for observation. According to the Highway Patrol, the southbound Johnson vehicle and the northbound Helle car met head-on on a straight stretch of highway. Both Johnson's 1968 model and Helle's 1973 sedan were demolished.

In another area accident investigated by the Highway Patrol, Gerald Schouweiler, 62, Plainview, Minn., received minor injuries when his southbound vehicle left the road and rolled over on Highway 74 one mile north of Elba.

Schouweiler was not hospitalized. His 1969 sedan received heavy damage.

Housewife attacks, 'The Blob' succumbs

DALLAS (AP) — "The Blob" has been pronounced dead after a Texas housewife doused it with a home-brewed insecticide but a researcher says he may attempt to recreate the mysterious growth for further study.

Arnold Dittman, a member of the waste-recycling firm Growth International, said his preliminary examination showed the membranous material to be a harmless bacteria-like substance.

Dittman picked up samples of the growth but the specimens died.

"We haven't been able to revive them. We're trying to produce the same effect that Mrs. Harris had in her yard. You never know, but this appears to be nothing more than a mutation of common ordinary bacteria or fungi, or a combination thereof."

"The Blob," as Dallas area residents came to call it, attracted worldwide attention when housewife Marie Harris of Garland found the pulsating, growth seeping up through her backyard lawn two weeks ago.

The mysterious ooze conjured up images of horror movie creatures impervious to the combined power of the armed forces. But Dittman discounted such imaginings and Mrs. Harris put a stop to the Blob with a bucket of tobacco water.

"People fear the unknown," Dittman said. "If they don't know what it is, they naturally fear it. We all dream, and we probably all would like to see something from outer space. But I doubt if this is anything like that."

Mrs. Harris said a woman called her to suggest using a tobacco and water gruel to kill the multiplying blob. The woman described the mix as an old-time remedy for ridding the garden of insects.

"I figured I had nothing to lose and tried it. It started to dry up and this is what's left," she said, pointing at a white, crusty material.

Day center youth end school year with field trip

WABASHA, Minn. (Special) — A flurry of activity, including a field trip to Monkey Island in La Crosse, Wis., marked the last week of the school year at the Wabasha County Day Activity Center here.

The Wednesday field trip included a stop at the Prairie Island Deer Park in Winona enroute to La Crosse, where the group met youngsters from the Houston County Day Activity Center for a picnic lunch.

Other activities during the week included an indoor picnic at the center May 22, and a food demonstration Thursday by the Wabasha County Agricultural Extension Service, which included an opportunity for each student to make ice cream.

Special enforcement praised by Lucey

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey says a reduction of highway fatalities in Wisconsin during the Memorial Day weekend was a result of special enforcement.

Lucey said the number of traffic deaths, reported as 13, was the lowest in seven years. Sixteen victims died in 1972.

"I feel that any fatality on Wisconsin highways is one too many," Lucey said Tuesday. "But I am gratified that the special highway safety measures we introduced over this holiday weekend reduced statewide fatalities."

Arizona chapter of WSC Alumni Society formed

An Arizona chapter of the Winona State College Alumni Society was organized recently at a meeting of 20 Winona State alumni at a poolside party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Meschke, Tempe, Ariz.

The meeting was held while the annual Winona State Alumni Dinner was in progress at Krysko Commons on the college campus.

According to Ray K. Amundson, assistant to the president and director of alumni affairs at Winona State, the Arizona chapter is the first of its kind to be organized in the history of the college.

At the meeting, Mrs. Winifred Soucy, a 1918 graduate, was the earliest graduate attending and Miss Elaine Anfilla, 1972, was the most recent graduate.

Forty-six alumni have been contacted in the state and the chapter plans immediate action to formalize relationships with the college and find and encourage other alumni in the state to become active in the alumni society.

The Arizona chapter will meet again in November in Phoenix.

The college will have an official representative to meet with the Arizona alumni.

Ridgeway's kindergarten program retained for year

Retention of a kindergarten program at the Ridgeway School for the 1973-74 school year was voted Tuesday by the School Board of Winona Independent District 861.

The decision was made on the recommendation of E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent of schools for elementary education after a question had been raised earlier this year as to whether the projected kindergarten enrollment at Ridgeway would justify continuation of the program for another year.

SURVEYS INDICATE that Ridgeway will have a kindergarten class of about 16 next year, the second lowest kindergarten enrollment among the 10 district elementary schools with kindergarten classes.

Mueller told directors Tuesday that because of the interest of the parents in the Ridgeway district in offering kindergarten instruction, he would recommend that the program be continued.

Mueller and Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson said that there were certain factors indicating the enrollment could go higher — perhaps to 20 or more — and both felt that a kindergarten should be retained for at least one year.

Mueller and Nelson observed that some parents may be somewhat confused about the age requirements for registration of children for kindergarten classes.

THE PRESENT policy calls for a child to be 5 years old on or before Sept. 1 of the year he is enrolled in a kindergarten class.

Nelson and Mueller said that if any parent of a child whose 5th birthday is on Sept. 1 had not registered him for kindergarten he should contact school officials for registration.

Kenneth P. Nelson, 1st District director, noted that kindergarten enrollment data supplied by Mueller showed that there were 10 children registered for kindergarten at the Dakota School with the school census showing one more eligible child who had not been enrolled as yet, giving a potential of 11 for the 1973-74 school year.

Mueller acknowledged that the Dakota figure was low but said he felt that the program should be continued for at least another year "but the situation should be watched closely."

KENNETH NELSON inquired whether the district had ever operated a kindergarten with an enrollment as low as 10 and Mueller replied, "possibly one year at Stockton."

Supt. Nelson said that among the factors prompting the continuation of the kindergarten class at Dakota was the possible growth potential, noting the presence of mobile home courts in the area and the possibility of some of the children from these developments being assigned to the Dakota school in the future.

"Is this a situation that should be watched very closely?" Kenneth Nelson asked.

Mueller answered, "Yes. The school census should be studied for future enrollment projections."

"We've talked several times in the past about the feasibility of making a comprehensive study to determine whether it would be advisable to effect some consolidations," Nelson continued. "Are we doing anything in this regard to alleviate the problems we're experiencing?"

Supt. Nelson pointed out that the board has under consideration a proposal by the University of Minnesota Bureau of Field Studies for an inventory of existing school facilities, enrollment projections and compilation of other data. He said that if such a study were to be made, enrollment projections would be developed on a township basis which would assist the board in making plans for future as far as school operations are concerned.

Kenneth Nelson said he could appreciate the interest residents of elementary school districts had in maintaining kindergarten programs and recognized the problems Mueller was encountering.

He said he felt that continuing attention should be given to population developments for the determination of the advisability of continuing certain programs.

After additional discussion of the Ridgeway situation board members concurred in Mueller's recommendation that Ridgeway's kindergarten class be continued for the 1973-74 school year.

Richfield man sentenced in shooting death

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A Richfield man has been sentenced to 4 years in prison in the shooting death of a man authorities called a top drug supplier in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

Ramsey County District Judge Hyam Segall sentenced Hillel B. Lieberman, 35, Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to charges of kidnapping and second-degree murder. The charge was reduced from first-degree murder after discussions between the county attorney and Lieberman's attorney.

Lee G. Wiley, found dead in the back seat of his car parked at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport last Oct. 24, had been shot in the head four times.

Police described Wiley as one of the two or three major narcotics suppliers in the Twin Cities.

Alcohol levels noted in deaths

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (Special) — George D. Johnson, Jackson County sheriff, has reported that 59 percent of all the drivers killed in motor vehicle accidents in Wisconsin during the first quarter of this year had some alcohol in their blood.

Forty-six percent were above the legal blood alcohol level for intoxication.

THE STATISTICS came from the blood alcohol tests administered by the Wisconsin Division of Health to the 88 fatalities recorded through March 31. He added that state law now requires blood alcohol tests of all pedestrians or drivers age 16 or over who have died within six hours of an accident in which they were involved.

Speaking on the gasoline shortage, Johnson said: "The Triple A reports show a car will consume one less gallon of gasoline in every ten if it is driven at speeds 10 miles per hour slower. So slow down and save."

BICYCLING is becoming more and more popular in Jackson County, he noted. All bicycles by law are vehicles which must obey all traffic laws. Bicyclists must ride on the right hand side of the road stop at all stop signs; signal all turns; have a headlight and taillight or reflector for night riding, and never hitch by holding onto another vehicle.

The sheriff's department is taking applications for a full time traffic officer and a full time radio operator. Applications are available at the sheriff's office. All applicants should be available for an interview June 11.

U.S. court not interested in liquor squabble

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A U.S. District Court has declined to get involved in a challenge to a Wisconsin law which restricts the amount of credit available to holders of beer and liquor licenses.

Judge Myron L. Gordon dismissed Tuesday a suit which challenges the constitutionality of the statute, saying he does not feel the plaintiffs had adequate arguments for persuading him to intercede in a state prosecution.

The statute prohibits a holder of a beer license from buying more beer than he has not paid for a delivery made 15 days previously. For a liquor license, the payment deadline is 30 days.

The federal suit was filed by two former Milwaukee tavern operators, who Gordon said complained they had been "singled out for prosecution as criminals for delayed payment of their bills."

Permissiveness at Mankato State is criticized

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — An extensive survey of southern Minnesota residents revealed that a majority of the residents disliked what they viewed as permissiveness at Mankato State College.

The survey of 3,500 area residents revealed that if the college of some 12,000 students has an image problem it is due to "permissiveness and liberal dormitory policies."

The survey was completed one year after several student protests occurred which were said to have been disruptive to the Mankato community.

Of 305 parents of high school seniors surveyed, 174 said they would not send their son or daughter to Mankato State, with most of them citing permissive behavior at the college as their reason.

A college committee has drawn up a list of improvements the college could make to improve its image. Topping the list was "teaching of responsible behavior among students."

BIRTHRIGHT meeting focuses on resources

The second of four public information meetings sponsored by BIRTHRIGHT, included explanations of several resource agencies in Winona.

The meeting was held at Kraemer Drive Church of Christ Tuesday. According to Mrs. John Krage, program chairman, the third meeting, to be held at the church next Tuesday, will center on the emotional and psychological aspects of pregnancy.

THE REV. Bruce Logue, Church of Christ, pointed out individuals seeking counsel from ministers can expect it in two forms. The intangible help might take three main courses: psychological counseling, spiritual direction and referrals to social agencies, he said. Tangible help might be provided in the areas of housing and some financial aid to women in need.

Mrs. Donald Kieboer, Winona County Department of Social Services, reported that in addition to the customary services, the department has been offering pre-natal and post-natal classes to unwed mothers, and a group work session has been established to give support and training to unwed mothers keeping their babies.

The services of Catholic Charities has a case load mostly of unwed mothers, but there are also married women and couples faced with unwanted pregnancies who come for assistance, according to Miss Margaret Driscoll.

FREQUENTLY the alleged father is involved and needs help, she said, resulting in more pre-marital counseling. Counseling is based on the importance of the individual and the necessity to face reality, make decisions and be more emotionally healthy following the experience, Miss Driscoll explained.

Miller Friesen, Hlawatha Valley Mental Health Center, emphasized the center makes an effort not to duplicate the services of other community agencies, so has made no special effort to provide services to the unwed mother or pregnant woman. Specific cases which might be referred to the center are clients with a severe psychosis, those who have a history of post-partum psychosis, one requesting referral to the center, and a person too compliant to the wishes of others, he said.

According to Ron McGuire, the service of Winona Marriage and Family Counseling, formerly Family Service of the Margaret Simpson Home, has been light in the area of pregnancy counseling because other agencies are serving the needs of the community. However, he said, the agency provides a continual counseling service extending through pregnancy and after its termination.

THE CONTINUING education program at Cabrini Residence in conjunction with the Winona public schools was explained by Mrs. Henry Stankiewicz. The program last year had 35 courses, taught by seven certified teachers, with subjects ranging from German and geology to all types of history.

The teachers care about and provide support to the students but do absolutely no counseling, she said. The school program is open to any pregnant girl and residence at Cabrini is not a requirement.

Black River camp inmate is sentenced

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (Special) — Gregory D. Snider, 19, La Crosse, Wis., was sentenced to serve two years in the Wisconsin State Prison during motion day proceedings Tuesday morning in Jackson County Circuit Court here.

Circuit Judge Lowell Schoengarth, in sentencing Snider, indicated that the Jackson County sheriff is to take him to the reception center at Green Bay. The two-year sentence is to run concurrently with a sentence for burglary Snider was serving when he escaped from law enforcement officials at La Crosse Dec. 13, 1972.

SNIDER WAS found guilty by a jury on May 7 of escaping from the Black River Camp, a state prison near Black River Falls. He had been taken to La Crosse by a camp counselor, Carol Thorp, to see his critically ill mother, Mrs. Shirley Snider, 39, who was hospitalized there. It was when he and Thorp were returning to Thorp's car at the Lutheran Hospital parking lot that he ran away from the camp official. Ten days later Snider contacted La Crosse police asking them to come and get him at his mother's home.

Following the jury trial the court ordered a pre-sentence investigation. In placing the sentence Judge Schoengarth said the report showed Snider, as a juvenile, had been involved in two auto theft cases, charged with going through some parked cars, had kept a 16-year-old girl out overnight and had been convicted of burglary in La Crosse on May 22, 1972.

The record further showed that Snider had been expelled from school, had been in the Marines six months, including two when he was absent without leave, and, prior to the burglary sentence, had been living with a girl who allegedly had an illegitimate child by him.

Snider had been at the Black River Camp since Dec. 10, 1972, serving an 18-month sentence for the La Crosse burglary which occurred on May 27, 1972.

CARLYLE SKOLOS, who represented Snider, asked for leniency for his client stressing that Snider was emotionally distressed at the time of his escape due to the condition of his mother, who later died.

He added that Snider voluntarily gave himself up to La Crosse authorities and that no violence of any kind was involved in the escape charge.

Snider has been confined in the Jackson County Jail since Dec. 26, 1972.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Andrew S. Braun, 42, a nursing home resident, drowned Tuesday in a municipal pond.

Council backs sale of bonds for W-S addition

Winona councilmen appeared willing Tuesday night to sell up to $2 million in industrial revenue bonds to underwrite an addition to Warner & Swasey Co.'s Airport Industrial Park plant.

The council gave City Manager Paul G. Schriever "informal" approval to begin making arrangements through bond attorney Dorsey, Marquart, Windhorst, West & Halladay, Minneapolis, to organize the issue.

The issue would back the 52,624-square-foot addition and equipment. The Cleveland, Ohio-based corporation would repay principal and interest as well as any bond consultant fees.

Approval was informal because councilmen were meeting in unofficial session, unable to take official action.

"I think we should support Warner & Swasey's position in this," said 1st Ward Councilman Earl Lautenberger, "the same way we do in the Port Authority for Victoria Elevator."

The Port Authority began working on a $550,000 revenue bond issue for Victoria in April to cover development of rail shipping facilities. The port had sold $825,000 in bonds in 1972 to rebuild the burned out terminal here.

The Port also sold $1.8 million in bonds for relocation of Badger Foundry in Riverbend Industrial Park last year.

In each case, the low-interest, tax-free bonds became a company debt and no general obligation debt is pledged by the Port or the city.

Schriever, who was contacted by Warner & Swasey's secretary-treasurer E. J. Weldemann, Mary Baier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baier, Elmwood, Paul's Super Foods and Durand Builders; Mary Brantner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Brantner, Durand Rt. 1, Coast to Coast and Durand Lions Club.

Only 25 young men and women are being accepted in the Junior Prince and Little Princess of Funfest contests.

Youngsters 12 years or younger may participate in the 10th annual Durand Funfest kiddie and pet parade June 8 at 2 p.m., announced Vera Slabey, chairman.

THERE WILL BE four categories of competition: bike, doll buggy, costume (single and multiple) and pets. Prizes will be awarded in each group.

Duplicate awards will be issued when youngsters prepare their own entry without adult assistance.

The parade will form at Goodrich Lumber yard. Judging starts at 1:15 p.m. and prizes will be issued in the Durand Theater. In case of rain, the entire event will be moved to the Durand High School.

An "Art for the Fun of It" show also has been scheduled. Funfest inspired works by school youth will be displayed in downtown Durand starting Friday. There will be no judging.

THE FUNFEST tractor pulling contest will be held June 9 at 1 p.m. in Tarrant Park. There will be 10 classes for drivers, but no hot rod class. Entries are being accepted by Dan Fedie, Durand. First-place trophies and cash will be issued in each division.

Food and refreshments will be served on the grounds.

Woman used as bait is found raped in Florida

LARGO, Fla. (AP) — A 20-year-old woman used as a decoy to catch a man making obscene phone calls was raped after Largo police lost track of her, authorities say.

A 16-year-old youth was arrested and charged with rape, Pinellas County deputies said Tuesday.

After the woman reported receiving two obscene phone calls at her home, Largo police officers instructed her to arrange a meeting on Tuesday with the caller behind an elementary school in the county, Sheriff's Capt. Louis Kehler said.

Kehler said Largo police officers assigned to the stake-out lost sight of the woman for about 15 minutes and, when they found her, she had been raped.

Slight electrical shocks reported aid to healing

ST. LOUIS PARK, Minn. (AP) — Electrical stimulation apparently helps surgery patients to recover faster with fewer complications, according to a preliminary report by four St. Louis Park surgeons.

Electrodes placed near incisions delivered current from three flashlight batteries in a test initially made to determine the pain relieving properties of electrical stimulation.

The surgeons said the recovery rates of the 115 patients they tested were about one day shorter than a control group of patients the same surgeons have treated in the past 2½ years.

Doctors involved in the tests included Alan C. Hynes, D.E. Rauh, E.G. Yonchiro and G.D. Nelson, all of the St. Louis Park Medical Center. Hynes delivered a report on the findings at a session organized by the national Institutes of Health in Seattle, Wash., last week.

S. G. VISITORS

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — The Hatta Bohasson family, Morocco, are visiting at the Herman Vigen home here.

Her 'dreamy' affair could end in disaster

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a married man. It began two years ago when I went to work for him. I am married and have two children, six and eight. My husband is a nice guy, but nothing special. We don't communicate at all anymore. His whole life is sports.

Abby, I want more than anything else in the world to have my lover's child because I know I can never have him. He says he loves me, but he will never leave his wife because he loves her, too—in a different way. Also, he says having an affair is one thing, but he doesn't believe in breaking up another man's home.

I have expressed my desire to have his child, but he says it would be the worst thing I could do to myself. I don't agree with him. I feel that if our affair ends — as most affairs do, at least I will have a part of him to remember him by. Who would that be hurting as long as nobody but us knew it?

MY DREAM

DEAR MY: Your "dream" sounds like a plot for a grade "B" movie. Wake up! You're courting disaster with such hazardous notions.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited a friend to dine with us at a family restaurant to celebrate her birthday. Across from us sat a couple, their son, who looked about 4-years-old, and another adult.

The child talked loudly and incessantly. At one point he amused himself by loudly saying the ABC's over and over, making it impossible for us to converse.

When our guest went to the restroom, the boy followed her and tried to get in. Fortunately the door was locked. The boy's parents witnessed the whole thing and didn't say a word. After our guest vacated the restroom, the boy didn't go in, which indicated he didn't have to use it, he only wanted to annoy her.

That child ruined our evening. When we left we spoke to the owner about it and he said the parents and that child ate there often and there was nothing he could do about it.

Please print this to let parents know that they should either train their children to behave in public or leave them home. They have no right spoiling an evening out for others.

NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: Parents of ill-mannered children don't care whose evening they spoil. You should have complained directly to the parents or to the management earlier in the evening, and when it became clear that nobody cared, you should have gone elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: A woman signed "IGNORED" wrote to complain that her husband made it plain that he preferred the TV set to her, and you replied: "Maybe it's because he can turn off the TV when he wants to."

You should have added that he can also turn the TV "ON" when he wants to.

ROBERT B.

DEAR ROBERT: I would have, had I thought of it. Thanks for the assist!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GOT THE BLUES": Chin up, honey. A big disappointment today could be a blessing in disguise tomorrow.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old unmarried girl and am expecting my third illegitimate baby. I am living at home with my parents. They know about my condition and are disgusted with me. To tell you the truth, I am disgusted with myself.

My problem is I don't know who this baby is by. My mother keeps asking me, and I don't know what to tell her. What on earth shall I tell my doctor when he asks me who the baby's father is? He has to put some name on the baby's birth certificate, and I don't think it's fair to use a name I'm not sure of.

Please help me, Abby, as I am going crazy with worry.

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: Simply tell your doctor you aren't sure, and let it go at that. He'll understand.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Local television to feature St. Anne Hospice

A program, "St. Anne Hospice, a Benefit to the Community," will be presented in color on the local TeleProm-ter Cable TV System, Channel 3, on four days.

The program will be shown Thursday at 7 p.m.; Friday at 1:15 p.m.; Monday at 5:45 p.m. and June 16 at 7:45 p.m.

The program, narrated by Mrs. Malcolm Becker, activities director at the hospice, is being shown in conjunction with senior citizens month observed in May.

The program was filmed in the regional television production center at Winona State College by television interns, Kelly Reynolds and Dan Hall under the direction of the TV center and producer, Robert Bauman.

The presentation will highlight guests and staff of the hospice and will include the areas of arts and crafts, physical therapy, beauty and barber shops, activities, community events and volunteer groups, as well as social and entertaining groups.

Meyer-Stewart vows exchanged

Miss Maureen Marie Meyer and Allen James Stewart exchanged nuptial vows in an April 28 ceremony at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meyer, 421 Mankato Ave., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, Fountain City, Wis.

A reception was held in the Sunshine party room following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Winona Senior High School and prior to her marriage was employed by Winona Industries. The bridegroom, a graduate of Cochrane-Fountain City High School, is employed by Winona Industries. The couple are at home at 285 Vine St.

OES conducts memorial service

The Winona Chapter 141, Order of Eastern Star, conducted a memorial service in honor of the members who died during the past year at the meeting held Monday evening.

Participating in the service were: the Mmes. Gordon Ballard, George Elliott, Ervin Laufenburger, and Robert Treman and Arnold Donath and Robert Treman.

Reports were given by the 12 members who attended the grand chapter sessions in Minneapolis.

It was announced that the annual picnic for members and their families will be June 23 at Latsch Shelter, Prairie Island.

Rochester members were guests at the meeting.

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For THURSDAY, May 31

Your birthday today: Subtle tinges of glamor add to your appearance and deeds this year. You have much to do, acquire greater resources for spiritual evolution. Relationships tend to simple intensity. Today's natives show mind prevailing over matter.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Getting to the top of any group involves diplomacy. Appearances cloak mysteries better left undisturbed.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): A temporary spurt in financial affairs can work wonders. Restless moods focus on strange contacts.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): More mysteries are created than are solved. Letting well enough alone becomes difficult, though important. Time out for prayer.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Theory falters as you do the natural things to advance yourself. Friends offer useful suggestions. Loved ones have a different view. Wait, then express feelings.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Be clear and simple in saying what you want so there's no mistake. Authority generally endorses you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The line between your own life and that of others wavers a bit. Leave your work behind you at quitting time.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your energy and appetites rise together. Distant people and places assume an unreal glamor. Concentrate on reliability.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You'll find yourself on the move upward sooner than expected. Put an extra drive in all you do.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): No great thrill is promised. Test whatever you are to buy before you close any deal or postpone large purchases. Patience is a virtue.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Speculation is out of bounds today. You're apt to forget something unless you make careful plans. Evening is good for music or reading.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Short-term situations catch you unprepared. Opt for the long-term gain even though frustrated now. Friends are not the best advisors.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Complex and subtle switches of conviction and opinion prevail. Haste is out of season today.

Water-damaged cars moving toward Wisconsin?

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Damaging floods in the South may lead to water-damaged cars being sold in Wisconsin, the state Justice Department says.

It said flood damage must be disclosed in any advertisement as well as on the vehicle before being sold in the state.

The department suggested prospective auto buyers check signs of corrosion under the hood, inside bumpers, behind hubcaps and behind fuel tank caps.

Check gauges and electrical wiring, it advised.

Frustration, rain continue at Indianapolis

By MIKE HARRIS
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Frustration ... gray, dismal frustration.

It was the overriding emotion during two futile days of attempting to get past the pace lap for the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

A steady drizzle Tuesday washed out the classic race for the first time in the 57-year history of the event that it has happened.

THE RACE was rescheduled for 10 a.m. EDT today, but rain continued to fall this morning and officials were talking about a start around 3 p.m. EDT if the rain stopped.

The forecast was for rain much of the day.

Thirty-one of the 32 remaining cars in the starting field managed to get in a parade and pace lap Tuesday before the rain returned.

from the lineup then. It was the only car damaged seriously enough in Monday's multiple-car wreck to be missing Tuesday. Walther was seriously injured in the accident—a scant nine seconds after the false start of the race.

Speedway officials and drivers were apologetic in their remarks about the second washout.

Chief Steward Marlan Fengler told the second-day crowd of more than 175,000 that he waited for 4½ hours before calling the race, hoping conditions would improve. They didn't.

"We have a very dangerous situation here. The track is not safe," Fengler said. The powerful, turbocharged championship cars cannot run safely on a wet track.

A.J. Foyt, looking for his fourth Indy win, was one of three drivers fined $100 each Tuesday for improving their positions before Monday's aborted start. The others were Steve Krisloff and Peter Revson.

The first rain delay Tuesday wasn't bad for everyone.

A brake hose on John Martin's McLaren had been seized in the Monday wreck and gave out on the parade lap Tuesday.

Martin had to go into the pits and would have missed the start of the race. The repair was made with the help of pole-sitter Johnny Rutherford's chief mechanic, Hughie Absalom, and some USAC officials, who helped Martin's crew get a new hose.

Martin was asked if the delays made him edgy. His reply apparently expressed the sentiment of most of the drivers, some of whom sailed a Frisbee in the pit area or napped during the long wait.

"I don't get nervous," Martin said.

All the postponements haven't stopped two A. J. Foyts from being optimistic about winning an unprecedented fourth 500 championship. Both were in garage No. 29 on the Speed-way's Gasoline Row, and it was hard to detect which was more determined to win.

"I don't see why we can't win it," said Anthony Joseph Foyt, Sr., better known as Tony, as rain peppered down on the metal roof after a second day's postponement of the big race.

"Being in the eighth row means nothing to A.J. He could make that up in the first 50 laps."

The father of the auto racing star, a three-time Indianapolis winner, is a youngish-looking man of 60 who plays nursemaid to A.J.'s Coyote and that of George Snider, another member of the Jim Gilmore team. He is the head mechanic.

He was one of those most disturbed by the two days of rain-outs and the frustrating on-again, off-again starts, although his 38-year-old son took it in stride.

"It's exasperating," he complained. "Up every morning at five, getting the car ready, hauling it back and fourth between the track and the garage, fighting the rain. Pretty soon you get all whipped out."

The younger Foyt holds numerous Indianapolis records. Besides winning in 1961, 1964 and 1967, he leads all active drivers in the number of miles driven in competition, 5,410; most Indy points, 4,560; and most leading laps, 324. He is the only driver to have started the last 15 races.

The father said he had learned to accept accidents such as the one on the opening lap Monday, in which A.J. was mildly involved but not hurt, but the same was not true of A.J.'s mother.

"She gets nervous—she'd like for him to quit," he said.

Scarborough's HR sparks Hawks

By BRUCE CLOSWAY
Daily News Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, Minn. — Pine Island, without a doubt, had an optimistic bunch of ball players after jumping out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning against Winona High's ace, Greg Zaborowski here Tuesday afternoon.

They had been informed well before the game of Zaborowski's accomplishments on the mound this season, including his 5-0 shutout against Red Wing last Friday.

But 20 minutes later a cloud of gloom hung over the Panthers' dugout.

INSPIRED BY Greg Scarborough's towering three-run homer that tied the game, Winona went on to score seven runs in the bottom of the first and wound up with a 9-3 triumph over the school with an enrollment of just 200.

The victory put the Winhawks in the championship game of the District Three Tournament at Mayo Field here against defending champion Lake City. The game has been moved up from 6 p.m. Thursday to 2 p.m. so as not to conflict with graduation ceremonies at Winona High the same evening.

Lake City, winner of 12 straight games, edged Rochester May 2-1 in an earlier contest Tuesday in spite of a two-hit pitching effort by Mayo's Steve Behnken. Jim Tackmann went the distance for the Tigers for his ninth win in ten decisions and is expected to be back on the mound for Bill Kieffer's squad Thursday.

Lake City was the team that ousted Winona from last year's district tourney and went on to win the Region One and state consolation titles.

ZABOROWSKI, who seemed to be lacking his customary quickness when the game with Pine Island began, retired the first two batters he faced before Tony Murray laced a single to left. Then with a 1-and-1 count, the Panthers' clean-up hitter, Jim Sugure, tagged a line drive to the opposite field that hooked away from left-fielder Ross Hamernik.

Hamernik managed to catch up with the ball but it slipped off the top of his glove for a two-base error with Murray scoring on the play.

The Winonan tried his fastball on the next batter, John Miller, and the first time he rapped a long foul down the rightfield line. The second time he saw a fast one, with a 1-and-2 count, he timed it perfectly and sent it soaring over the rightfield fence for a two-run homer.

Zaborowski fanned the next batter, but the situation looked bleak at that point. Pine Island had won its first two district tilts by scores of 2-1 (Stewartville) and 1-0 (Kasson-Manitouville), and three runs could have been all starter Paul Stofferahn needed.

BUT KARL KREUZER reached on a throwing error by the shortstop to start off the bottom of the frame, and then Stofferahn was the target of a line drive off the bat of Gary Ahrens. The ball struck the junior righthander directly below the knee cap, and by the time he hobbled over to retrieve it, Ahrens was across the bag at first.

Despite nearly collapsing from the pain, Stofferahn was allowed to continue pitching and by all rights should have been rid of Scarborough.

The first time the burly Winona batter took a cut, he popped the ball foul near the third base dugout. Jay Stofferahn moved under to make the grab but was foiled by the wind, and the ball dropped harmlessly in foul territory.

The next time Scarborough swung there was no chance to catch the ball—unless you happened to be wondering around some 50 feet beyond the fence at right. He tied the game with a blast into the tree tops that was estimated at nearly 400 feet.

DEAD DUCK? ... Pine Island's Tony Murray looked like a sure out as he began his slide towards the plate in the first inning of Tuesday's District Three semi-final contest at Mayo Field in Rochester. But the relay from the outfield pulled Winona catcher, John Mueller, to the third base side of the plate, and Murray managed to avoid the tag. The Panthers scored three runs in the inning, but Winona came back with seven in the bottom of the frame and went on to win 9-3. (Daily News Sports photo)

In 1-0 win over Brewers

Terrell Twins' man of the hour

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bobby Darwin hit the game winning home run and Bert Blyleven pitched his second successive shutout, but the man of the hour in the Minnesota Twins' clubhouse Tuesday night was a utility infielder named Jerry Terrell.

Terrell, playing because regular shortstop Danny Thompson had a bruised arm, managed to complete a game ending double play despite a fierce block by John Briggs as Blyleven and the Twins won a 1-0 pitchers' duel over the Milwaukee Brewers and Jim Slaton.

The Brewers American League East leaders earlier this month slipped into the cellar with their fifth defeat in six games.

"The shortstop made a hell of a play," Brewer Manager Del Crandall said. "Briggs said he was right on him. In fact, Briggs hurt himself. That's the way John plays."

The Brewers, who had men on second with one out in the sixth and seventh innings but failed to score, got a single from Ollie Brown to open the ninth. Briggs, after failing to sacrifice, singled pinch runner Gorman Thomas to third with none out.

After Don Money popped out, Ellie Rodriguez slapped a slow hopper almost directly behind second base.

Terrell, ranging far to his left, scooped up the ball and tagged second. Briggs, charging to the bag from first decked Terrell with a rolling block but the rookie managed to get enough on his throw to first to nip Rodriguez and end the game.

"He flipped me over in a somersault, but I'll take it if we can win a game," Terrell said. "Bert pitched so well, we just had to win for him."

"I saw Briggs coming, but I just managed to get off the throw," he said. "He hit me and I could feel my legs go out from under me just as I was going into my follow-through."

"I was playing straight away, back for the double play, and if the ball had been hit a little harder it probably would have gone through," Terrell said. "But it was hit slow and at first (second baseman) Rod Carew and I didn't know which of us should take it. Finally I could see it angling to my side and Rod hollered for me to make the play."

Slaton, pitching for the first time in 13 days after a bout with a stiff shoulder, was working on a three-hitter until Darwin led off the seventh with his sixth homer.

Twins negotiating a trade for shortstop with Texas

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Calvin Griffith expects to hear soon from Texas Rangers owner Bob Short on a trade offer proposed by the Minnesota Twins.

Griffith, Twins' president, confirmed Tuesday before the club opened a three-game series at Milwaukee that he and Short were negotiating reportedly for Texas shortstop Tony Harrah.

"I added some names for him to think about," said Griffith. "He may take two for one or something like that. He's going down to Texas to scout. When he comes back, he said he'd call me up."

Short went to Arlington, Tex., to watch the Rangers start a three-game series against Cleveland.

Griffith has expressed a desire to strengthen Minnesota's defense by obtaining a new shortstop and moving Danny Thompson to third base. Steve Braun then would play in the outfield.

Short could be interested in starting pitchers, and Griffith has indicated that Bill Hands and Dick Woodson might be available. Hands wants to be traded.

Griffith said he has no other trade talks under way with any other teams.

It has been reported that Baltimore was interested in giving up slumping first baseman Boog Powell and that the New York Yankees were ready to discuss a deal with the Twins.

The American League trading deadline is June 15, and Griffith would not say if he thought a trade actually would be made.

"You never can be optimistic about a trade until both teams say yes," said Griffith. "If you are optimistic about it, something always happens ... like somebody coming up with a sore toe."

"I gave him a fast ball up and right over the plate," Slaton said. "It was a 3-2 pitch and I just didn't want to walk the leadoff man of the inning."

"My arm felt real good, which is one good thing, I guess," he said. "I just made one mistake, but it cost us the game."

Twins Manager Frank Quilici went to the mound after Brown and Briggs had singled, but said he had no intention of lifting Blyleven. The Twins had ex-Brewer relief ace Ken Sanders throwing in the bullpen.

"In that situation I was mostly giving infielders instructions—what to do on a suicide squeeze or a ground ball, the possibility of a ground ball or whatever," Quilici said.

"I just told Bert he had worked too hard not to get the victory," he said. "I told him to just relax, and that if he was going to get anybody to strike out or pop up, now was the time."

Last-minute decision

IN THE FADING hours of this year's session, the Minnesota Legislature approved a request from the Department of Natural Resources asking for funds to remodel the state's two main trout hatcheries — the one at Lanesboro and the one on the French River.

Commissioner of Natural Resources Robert Herbst points out that an appropriation of $1,350,000 was made available for work on the two facilities.

The French River hatchery is located on Lake Superior's North Shore, near Duluth.

The state's trout hatchery program has proven to be a major resource to the state's fishing program, with dozens of previously unproductive lakes turned into trout producers and the stream fishing improved immensely.

Hatchery production is a must to continue the trout programs — even though we would like to see nothing but natural reproduction of wild brown, brook and rainbow trout, we must admit this isn't possible — and to supplement what natural reproduction there is in local streams.

The state's hatchery facilities certainly can use remodeling. With the needed changes, each hatchery will become more efficient and more productive and that will mean more fish for the cold water angler.

Where will the money come from? The legislature has authorized the DNR to charge $2 for a trout stamp. Other states have similar methods of financing their trout programs by adding fees to the regular fishing license tab, and trout fishermen don't seem to mind.

However, Herbst points out that the additional charge won't be made right away. He says the state will try and finance the programs through the regular channels available through the fish and game funds and various federal aids.

Only if these funds don't come through will the trout stamp go on sale in Minnesota.

The first stage of the remodeling program will be planning. The DNR estimates it will take at least two years before every phase is complete.

When completed these two facilities will be used almost exclusively for stream and lake trout production.

Camping fees raised

CAMPING FEES HAVE been raised in Minnesota state parks. Those of you who made a first trip to a state park for the season this past weekend may have found that out abruptly.

As of Jan. 1, 1973, the daily fee was raised from $2 to $3.

According to the Department of Natural Resources, the increased funds will be used to increase night security at state parks and campgrounds.

Another new schedule will go into effect Oct. 1. After that date vehicles owned and operated by persons 65-years-old or over will be admitted to parks without the daily charge for a motor vehicle.

Also, on Mondays through Thursdays after Oct. 1, camping and golf fees for senior citizens will be cut in half.

All prospective golfers and campers looking to take advantage of the new fee schedule for senior citizens will have to be able to prove their age when they enter the park.

Houseboat or boathouse?

WHETHER A FLOATING shelter is a houseboat or a boathouse has become a difficult question to answer in many areas of Wisconsin in recent years — most notably on the Wolf River and on the rivers around La Crosse — and the state Department of Natural Resources has decided to do something about it.

The state has specific regulations pertaining to houseboats and also to boathouses and officials have decided that it is about time some of these questionable structures be declared one or the other and treated accordingly.

Houseboats and boathouses that qualify as structures under state law must have permits to be where they are, while those that don't qualify don't need a permit but must comply with all boating laws.

Obviously, there are many unanswered questions as to what applies to each individual boathouse or craft and for this reason the DNR has scheduled public information meetings to iron out some of the questions.

Houseboat and boathouse owners should make a note to attend — that includes a lot of Winonans who have houseboats or boathouses across the Interstate Bridge on the Wisconsin side of the channel — because when Wisconsin begins enforcing its laws and designating this structure a boathouse and that one a houseboat you may have to act quickly to comply.

The first meeting has been set for 8 p.m. June 12 in the basement of the Buffalo County Courthouse, Alma, Wis. There will also be a meeting in the courthouse in Hudson, Wis., June 14; the courthouse in La Crosse, Wis., June 19 and in Prairie du Chien June 21.

WSC varsity whips alumni gridders 28-7

Displaying a diversified offense, Winona State's varsity football team breezed to a 28-7 conquest of a depleted alumni squad Saturday night at Maxwell Field in the first of the varsity-alumni tilts to be held in the spring.

Coach Bob Keister employed four different quarterbacks, John Eickholt, Rick Ernst, Steve Person and Joe Loshek, as the varsity experimented with every play in its play book and probably a few others as well.

The first time the varsity handled the ball it was on the scoreboard as scat back Bo Jackson pulled in a long punt from Bob Welch, cut behind a key block and scampered 65 yards untouched for a touchdown.

The varsity made it 12-0 when Eickholt, who handled the signal-calling chores practically all last season, found freshman Chuck Caves five steps beyond the defense on a 32-yard pass over the middle.

After some nifty deception by Eickholt on a play the alumni was stacked in the middle for, Tim Meehan, another freshman, took a handoff on an end-around play and swept the opposite end from two-yards out for the varsity's third touchdown. Jackson burst over for the two-point conversion to make it 20-0.

A gallant goal-line stand by the alumni went for naught minutes later when the alumni fumbled the ball inside its own five-yard line on the ensuing series. From there Jackson broke across for his second TD, and Ernst combined with Tom Wunderlich for the points after.

While the varsity went scoreless in the second half, the alumni picked up its lone score when Davis Usgaard, a native of Mabel now teaching in Wisconsin, connected with Larry McCutcheon on a ten-yard pass in the corner of the end zone. Welch then added his patented drop kick for the extra point.

Other members of the alumni who competed were Wally Madland, Harry Mitchell, Tom Von Feldt, Darrell Holzer, Randy Gronert, Fred Benning, Paul Fay, Jeff Middendorf, Pete Madland, Ed Littlejohn, Tom Lennon, Tim Webb, Keith Comerford, Bernie Kennedy, Jim Baker, Chuck Zane, and Joe Kulsie. An alumni-varsity baseball game scheduled for Sunday evening at Gabrych Park was cancelled because of rain.

Watkins adds third win in Tuesday league

WATKINS, Wis. — The Watkins women's softball team added its third win in the Tuesday Night Women's Softball League.

Watkins beat East Side Bar 5-2 as Joan Lisowski homered, while Minnesota City nipped Steve's Lounge 22-19 as Mary Lynn Speltz went 5-for-5, including a home run.

Oasis Bar dumped Ronnally's 7-2 as Betty Redig and Mary Sue Eichman each went 4-for-4 and Mickey Meyers beat Club Midway 9-2 as Cynthia Schwaiger homered and Punky Ebert went 4-for-4.

Makeup games from May 22 will be played Friday, with all games at 6:30 p.m. on their respective fields.

Grant has what he wants: 2 veteran QBs

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota Vikings' Coach Bud Grant maintains it takes two experienced quarterbacks to field a National Football League champion.

Grant has a pair of experienced field leaders in Fran Tarkenton and Bob Berry.

"Miami won the Super Bowl with two quarterbacks," Grant referred to Earl Morrall and Bob Griese. "After Sonny Jurgensen went down at Washington, Bill Kilmer was there to get them into the Super Bowl."

"Steve Spurrier took the 49ers into the playoffs after John Brodie was hurt. Dallas had Craig Morton and Roger Staubach. I just don't think you can win consistently without two quarterbacks. The position is vulnerable with just one man."

So the Vikings will go with Tarkenton as No. 1 and Berry, if he accepts the role, as the backup.

It's somewhat ironic that Tarkenton and Berry are back together again where they started their careers.

The 33-year-old Tarkenton, who has passed for 31,135 yards and 234 touchdowns in his career since 1961, returned to Minnesota in 1972 after spending five seasons with the New York Giants.

Berry, with 8,747 yards and 88 touchdowns since 1965, re-joins the team this year from Atlanta. The Vikings sent reserve quarterback Bob Lee and veteran middle linebacker Lonnie Warwick to the Atlanta Falcons for Berry.

One of the few games Berry did start with the Vikings was in 1966 when Norm Van Brocklin, now coach at Atlanta, benched Tarkenton, who then asked to be traded.

Berry rode the bench in Coach Bud Grant's first season in Minnesota in 1967 and was sold to the Falcons for $100 in 1968.

Berry, 31, said. "I had expected to be traded. But I was surprised to be coming back to Minnesota. Out of the 26 teams, this was the last place I thought I would be traded to."

Berry's multiyear contract with Atlanta has been transferred to the Vikings, but Berry said he still has several matters to clear up with Jim Finks, Viking general manager.

"Part of what we're talking about is the quarterback situation," said Berry. "I'm returning to the same situation that existed before when Francis was here. I'm sure we'll resolve things before I leave."

"I want to play football. I'm right in my prime—things are easy for me now. In the first years, I was struggling. But the longer you play, the easier it becomes."

Grant called this week's meetings "a review" of the Viking offense.

"After 12 years in the league, it may not be very enlightening for Tarkenton," said Grant. "But almost every word is new for Wells. With Berry it's a matter of terminology."

"Playbooks will be issued to the quarterbacks with a 10 to 15 per cent change in offensive plays from last season. Each play, each pass pattern will be discussed."

"We'll get the answers why a play has been effective or why it hasn't," Grant said. "You might call this week the kickoff of our season."

Training camp opens July 25.

Marquette signs 6-9 Chicago star
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al McGuire, basketball coach at Marquette University, said Tuesday the school has recruited high school all-American Maurice "Bo" Ellis, a 6-foot-9, 190-pound center from Chicago Parker.

Ellis, called by McGuire "one of the top three high school players in the nation, if not No. 1," averaged 27 points and 18 rebounds per game last season, and made the Chicago Public League all-conference team four consecutive years.

Houston ousted by Rushford, 8-3

Root River Conference champion Houston was eliminated by errors and Rushford as the semi-final berth for the District One baseball tournament were claimed Tuesday.

Rushford, taking advantage of seven Houston errors, ousted the Hurricanes 8-3 as John Christianson, Roger Olson and Jeff Carlson had two hits apiece. Olson also drove in three runs.

Rich Halvorson and Gary Holte, Houston's pitchers, led the losers at the plate with 3-for-4 and 2-for-4 performances, respectively.

Caledonia, scoring all of its runs in the third inning, blanked La Crescent 3-0 on the nine-strikeout, two-hit pitching of Kris Ballard. The junior right-hander did not issue any free passes.

Caledonia, now 9-3, scored its runs on a wild pitch and a two-run throwing error.

In a game resumed from last Thursday (it was halted because of rain) in the bottom of the seventh inning with one out Preston nipped Grand Meadow 2-1.

Preston had runners on first and third when the game was halted Thursday. But, after Tony Lammers struck out, Ed Falkner singled in the winning run.

Tom Larson tossed a no-hitter for the Bluejays, although Grand Meadow scored on two walks and a fielder's choice in the sixth inning. Preston had scored in the first inning when Paul Slostad reached on an error and scored on Larson's RBI single.

The District One semi-final pairings will pit Rushford against Preston at 3 p.m. and Caledonia against Chalfield — which whipped Harmony 14-0 last Thursday — at 5:30 p.m. Both games will be played today at Grand Meadow.

Midway tops trap league
The Club Midway copped an eight-point winning margin in leading the team scoring in Tuesday's round of the Monday Night Trap League No. 2 at the Winona Sportsmen's Club range.

Club Midway fired a 224 to nip Rocco's Pizza, 216. Rollingstone Lumber smashed 212, Budnick's 76, 211; Bill and Betty's 207; Lake Center Switch 205; Wayne 202 and West End Bait Shop 199.

Ray Lisowski led the individual guns with a round of 49 out of 50 while Dave Shaw was just one target off the pace, smashing 48.

Dick Niemeyer, Joe Wise, Lyle Fritz and junior shooter Rod Sines tallied 246-600 to lead Bowling Fools to 1,010-2,773 in the Westgate 69'ers Bowling League Tuesday night.

Durand captures regional title, 7-1

DURAND, Wis. — Don Sinz chalked up his ninth win against one setback here Tuesday in the Durand Regional Baseball Tournament as he combined with brother Doug and Bob Schuhs to drop Prescott 7-1 on a four-hitter.

In recording their 13th win of the year the Panthers moved into WJAA sectional play Thursday in Eau Claire.

The Panthers took a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning, added a lone run in the fifth and padded the lead with four more in the sixth. Dave Hunt slipped two hits and accounted for a pair of RBIs while teammate Mike Schuhs also slammed a pair of safeties.

Now 13-1 on the season, Durand will face Prentice in a 2 p.m
